Calls Assembly On School Aid and Job List

Governor Calls 'Eleventh Hour' Session for Dec. 30-31 for Re-enactment of Cigaret and Fuel Tax; Wants to Fill Vacancies in State Posts Before Bricker Regime.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L. Davey's announcement that he would call an 11th hour special session of the legislature for Dec. 30-31 created speculation today over how many appointments to state positions would win senate confirmation.

The governor's announcement last night said the third special session of the 92nd general assembly would be asked to re-enact school financing measures and to take up "such other matters" as he might present.

The "other measures" assertedly included reappointment of Charles S. Leasure to the unemployment compensation commission and selection of State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley to succeed Thomas M. Gregory on the industrial commission, together with several other designations which Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker would be empowered to make after taking office Jan. 9.

Keith Lawrence of Cleveland, senate Democratic leader, was reported last week to have assured Governor Davey that sufficient votes have been lined up to insure confirmation of the two major appointments, which heretofore have been balked by a bloc of anti-Davey "hatchet men" in the upper chamber.

Re-enactment of the cigaret and liquid fuel taxes, which help finance the school foundation program, confronted by a $17,000,000 deficit, will be the "primary" purpose of the special session, Governor Davey said.

Eases Borrowing Plan.

Re-enactment of the levies was expected to make it easier for school districts to borrow against anticipated revenues from the taxes, which expire March 31. The governor cited an earlier pledge to call a special session after the November election to ease the school crisis.

Administration leaders have admitted openly the desirability of Leasure's reappointment to his $6,000 a year post because of the patronage involved. His term expires Dec. 28. Appointment would be for six years.

Knisley, who leaves his present office Jan. 9, would be a "compromise" selection to appease "hatchet men" who have refused to confirm either Ferd M. Pickens of Circleville or J. Freer Bittinger of Ashland as a successor to Thomas M. Gregory on the industrial body. Gregory's term in the $5,000 a year office ended in June, 1937, but he has continued to serve on the commission.

Other possible appointments included 12 members of the regional claims boards under the industrial commission, a member of the state board of pharmacy and membership on several minor boards and commissions.

This special session would end automatically with the advent of the new year when terms of present legislators expire.

GIMP WAITING

Jury to Get Case Today as Counsel Closes Arguments.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—The fate of Martin (the Gimp) Snyder will be placed in the hands of six somber looking men and six complacent looking women today.

They are the superior court jury which for the past 11 days has been listening to the testimony in the felony trial of the Gimp, accused of attempting to murder Myrl Alderman, present husband of the Gimp's former wife, the blond and statuesque Ruth Etting, radio singer.

All that remained to close the sensational trial today was to wind up final arguments of the prosecution and the defense.

The ex-Chicago newsboy, whose ingenuity started Ruth Etting and kept her going to the heights of theatrical stardom, heard himself called a "yellow rat" by the state, and a man who did not have murder in his heart but who shot Alderman in self-defense by his counsel.

VACATION NEAR FOR CITY PUPILS

5,000 in Public Schools to Begin Annual Christmas Holiday Tomorrow.

More than 5,000 pupils in Mansfield public schools will begin their Christmas vacation Wednesday afternoon, while more than 900 pupils in St. Peter's parochial schools start their holiday Thursday afternoon.

John Simpson's junior high's 1,300 pupils, dismissed last Friday to enable wreckers to start demolishing the building, will get the longest holiday of any pupils in the city, but they will have to make it up later, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

In order to participate in the state foundation school fund, schools must be in in session 180 days a year, Miller pointed out, and days lost now must be made up at the end of the regular school term or in extra class sessions during the term.

All of the city's 6,400 pupils in public schools will return to their classes Wednesday, Jan. 4, and after that there are no more holidays scheduled until Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Madison township schools, which will start their Christmas vacation tomorrow afternoon, will open again Jan. 3.

County rural schools do not observe a uniform vacation schedule, with a part of them to close Wednesday and others Friday. In most cases, classes will be resumed Tuesday, Jan. 3.

Pupils of the Country Day school will begin their vacation Wednesday afternoon and will return to their classes Wednesday, Jan. 4.

END WORKHOUSE 'HUNGER STRIKE'

270 Prisoners Listen To Plea, Take Food.

DAYTON—(AP)—After a two-hour strike over food being served them, 270 prisoners in the Dayton workhouse ended their protest after listening to a plea by one of the prisoners, ate the meal which they previously had refused and went to their daily chores at the institution.

The "strike" was not broken, however, until police reserves were called when trouble appeared likely and with officers standing guard with tear gas guns the strike soon ended.

The only casualty was Arnett Kinnard, 56, one of the prisoners, who was beaten over the head with chains by other prisoners when he ate his breakfast in defiance of the order.

EARLY PAY DAY

1,025 WPA Workers in County to Be Paid Before Holiday.

Santa Claus will visit 1,025 Richland county WPA workers two days early this year, the United States treasury announced in Washington today as it prepared pay checks totaling $20,000,000 for over 1,000,000 WPA and NYA workers throughout the nation.

A. H. Mollenkamp, Richland county engineer in charge of construction said that the scheduled payday for the county's WPA workers was on Dec. 28, but WPA officials had notified him that the pay checks totaling $30,000 would be distributed here either on Dec. 23 or 24.

OPEN INQUIRY IN GIGANTIC SWINDLE CASE

35 Witnesses Summoned as Federal Panel Meets for Exhaustive Inquiry.

SENSATIONS PILE UP

Investigators Hear 'Coster' Planned to Sell $8,000,000 in Arms to Mexico.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The grieving widow and two sisters of the masquerading "F. Donald Coster" headed a parade of 35 witnesses before a federal grand jury that began considering today what authorities term the "most gigantic and fantastic conspiracy and swindle ever foisted upon the American public."

The guiding genius of the fiasco that penetrated into 48 states and may envelope some prominent personages was a convicted swindler of a quarter century ago, Philip M. Musica.

Wife of Caretaker.

Mrs. "Coster" and two of her late husband's sisters, Grace and Louise, must first appear before Assistant U. S. Attorney Irving Kaufman. Louise is the wife of the caretaker of the estate of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr.

By the simple expedient of changing his name to "Coster" and purchasing control of the reputable McKesson & Robbins drug firm for $1,000,000, Musica launched a financial endeavor that exceeds fiction.

Before he was unmasked and committed suicide he allegedly used the drug concern as a shield for shadowy dealings in bootlegging and transportation of munitions to foreign nations.

Bizarre developments continued to tumble over each other as a three-fold investigation—federal, state and municipal—was pushed. From Boston came word that two business men, their names thus far withheld by federal agents, had served as "Coster's" representatives in a plan to sell $8,000,000 worth of rifles, ammunitions and bombing planes to Mexico.

Government Declines.

The plan, which came to naught when the Mexican government declined participation, contemplated resale of the instruments of war by Mexico to a foreign power, for use either in the Spanish civil war or the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Panama also was named as hav-

INAUGURAL SET

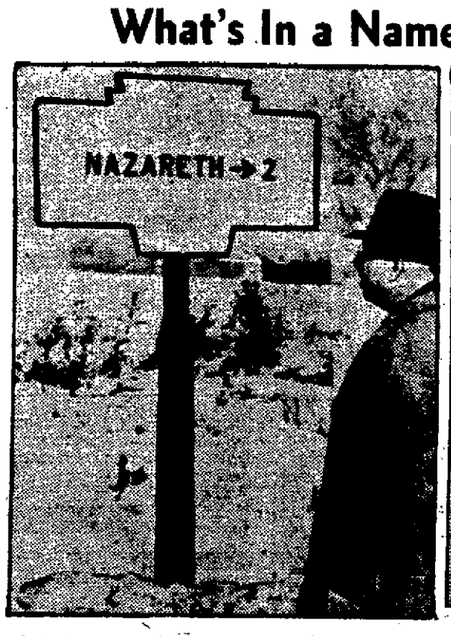
Bricker's Induction to Be Followed by Reception.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Governor-elect John W. Bricker will be inaugurated as the 54th governor of Ohio at 2 p. m. Monday, Jan. 9, according to final plans decided upon today.

The oath will be administered by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the state supreme court, after which the new governor will deliver his inaugural address.

Following the address a reception for the general public will be held in the rotunda of the statehouse. The inaugural ceremonies will begin at 12:30 when Bricker is escorted to the west steps of the statehouse where the oath will be administered. Early plans to hold the inaugural at some building other than the statehouse have been abandoned.

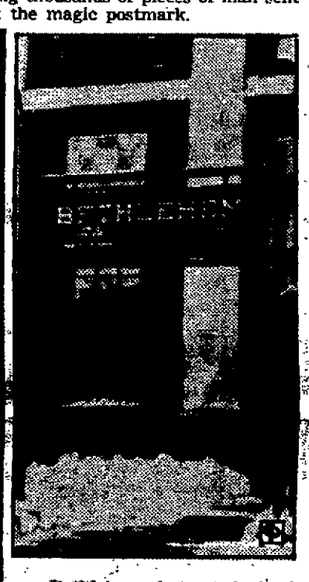
What's In a Name? Look at These



It's Nazareth all right, but not the Nazareth of the Holy Land where the mother of the Savior lived. It's in Pennsylvania, near Easton. Christmas mail goes there for postmarks, too.

Christmas is the name of this town in Florida. Palm trees on the sign are forgotten this time of year, for the town does a rushing business remailing thousands of pieces of mail sent there to get the magic postmark.

What's in a name? Ask Mary Christmas of Evansville, Ind. Her name is on everyone's lips these days. Mary takes it all without getting unduly puffed up.



Bethlehem—but not the birthplace of Christ. It is Bethlehem, Pa., on the Lehigh river, 55 miles from Philadelphia. It was founded in 1740-41 by the Christian sect of Moravians.

NAZIS ACT ON REFUGEE PLAN

Goering Invites American Director to Confer on Jewish Evacuation.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering today invited George Rublee, American director of international refugee office, to visit Berlin to complete the German financial plan for getting Jews out of Germany.

Rublee is the permanent executive in charge of the international committee assisting refugees, a group whose principal efforts in the past months have been sent toward aiding German Jews.

The invitation from Goering, chief of the Nazi four-year economic self-sufficiency plan, came on the heels of the visit to London last week of Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, on an unofficial mission attempting to arrange the financial end of Jewish emigration.

It also came after Prime Minister Chamberlain, in commons yesterday, said he was "still waiting for a sign from those who speak for the German people" that they were ready to make "their contribution" for European peace.

Studies Plan to Generate Power With Sewage Gas

Mayor Says Process at Sewage Plant Would Save City $4,500 Annually In Electric Bills.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today was studying a plan for generating electric power with the aid of sewage gas developed at the municipal sewage treatment plant that would result in an annual saving of approximately $4,500 in power bills at the plant.

Hunter said he would submit the proposal to city council for its consideration "early next year."

The proposal calls for the installation of gas-driven generator that would supply all the electricity used at the plant. Commercial gas would be purchased to supplement the city supply.

Submits Data on Plan.

Complete data on the plan was contained in a report submitted to the mayor today by J. R. Turner, superintendent of the sewage plant, who recommended that council investigate the proposal.

Turner pointed out that sewage gas available at the plant was being produced at the rate of 30,000 to 56,000 cubic feet daily and that if power equipment were installed, 57 per cent of the electrical power purchased at the plant during the

GIFT FOR OSCAR

Mrs. Hahn's Son Won't Visit Film Star; He'll Get Check.

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—There will be no trip to Hollywood for 12-year-old Oscar Hahn, whose mother died recently in Ohio's electric chair.

But George Raft, who was so moved by the boy's tragic experience that he invited him to pay a visit to California, was planning today to assume the role of long distance Santa Claus.

"I'm sorry the boy couldn't come," said Raft, "but I want to do something for a kid who has gotten such a tough break.

"The only thing I know is to send him a Christmas check to buy anything he wants."

SWINGS FISTS AT LAGUARDIA

Aged Assailant Knocks Mayor Down With Blow.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A heavy-set, gray-haired man leaped upon Mayor LaGuardia from behind and knocked him down with a blow of his fist as the mayor was mounting City Hall steps today. The assailant was immediately set upon by police and bystanders and beaten insensible.

The mayor caught the attacker's feet to ward off kicks.

After the man was overpowered, he was carried into a secretary's office which adjoins the mayor's suite.

LaGuardia superintended the removal.

FERRY BOAT SINKS

LISBON, Portugal—(INS)—Six passengers perished, 20 were injured and 30 others were listed as missing today after a crowded ferry boat sank in the Tagus rives following a collision with a dredger.

Yule Ball Scores Hit, $850 Profit to Help Fill 500 Christmas Baskets

WITH the Christmas ball and show community history today the Three Muster-Cheers set about the task of purchasing food for the approximately 500 Christmas baskets that will be possible as the result of the show and individual contributions.

Although the ball did not raise as much money as stage shows have produced in other years, the Muster-Cheers will have cleared approximately $850 when the final check-up is made, according to Paul Eliot, treasurer.

A total of 1,250 persons danced and saw the show last night, and the majority of them voted it the "best show yet."

The sale of general admission tickets grossed $950; the sale of 28 boxes at $5 per box added another $140; the flower booth, under the direction of Mrs. Ephraim Brown, cleared about $70, and the candy booth, in charge of Mrs. Paul W. Williams, netted about $6. Expenses for the show, for the Coliseum and the orchestra will total approximately $310, which leaves a net profit of $850 on the affair.

The Muster-Cheers began their activities this year with $130 on hand and approximately $105 has been contributed this year.

Dancing began at 9 p. m. and the show, which ran an hour and ten minutes, went on at 11:20, with J. Gilbert Baird as master of ceremonies.

The two professional acts on the program literally stopped the show, and probably no performers in the entertainment world were ever given a greater reception when they played the "home town" than that which greeted Ray and Trent, Mansfield boys who have climbed to the top of their profession, and Jane Wilson, who left Mansfield only a

Board Rents 2 Buildings For School

Vacant Garage, Republican Offices to Be Used As Classrooms.

The Mansfield board of education last night rented a vacant garage at 20 Bowman street and the second floor of the Warner brothers building on North Main street as temporary classrooms for pupils at John Simpson junior high school while the old building is being razed and a new one erected.

Supt. W. L. Miller said the two buildings will provide adequate quarters for pupils who cannot be accommodated in the eight classrooms that will be retained at the John Simpson building and at Hedges school.

The Warner building, rented from the Richland County Republican executive committee for one year, will house all of the ninth grade pupils at the school, Miller said.

Partitions will be built to form several classrooms in the large hall which was used as Republican headquarters during the recent campaign.

Republicans leased the room last month for a two-year period. The school board will pay $100 a month for this room and $125 for the garage building on Bowman street.

The garage, located between West Third street and Park avenue west, was rented for a year from C. V. Baker. Shop and sewing classes will be conducted there, Miller explained.

The superintendent said attempts will be made to have the 1,300 John Simpson pupils attend classes at the building most convenient for them. All pupils transported by bus will go to the

Break Ground Today for New Junior High

Ground breaking ceremonies for the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school building at Cline avenue and Wood street were scheduled for 2 p. m. today when H. W. Arlin, president of the school board, was to turn the first shovelful of earth on the building site.

Start of the project today was exactly on the schedule set up by PWA which is providing 45 per cent of the funds for the school program. Construction work will be done by the Steinle-Wolfe Construction company, Fremont.

FEMININE BOARD

All Women Named to Shelby's First Health Board.

SHELBY—An all-women city health board was approved last night by city council following the appointment of five women to the commission by Mayor D. B. Young.

Members of the board, the first in Shelby, are Mrs. C. E. Morris, president; Mrs. Hugh Hildebrant, treasurer; Mrs. Lillian Madden, secretary; Mrs. John Seltzer and Mrs. Ina Skiles.

Mayor Young said he named the women from an independent health league, composed entirely of women, which has been handling health and sanitation activities in the city.

Appointment of the board, he said, will enable the city to obtain funds from the state, while in the past it has financed its own health projects. The board was set up last year in compliance with the state health requirements, but appointment of the members was made only recently.

October was the first month since the bonus plan was placed in effect in May, 1936, that no bonus was paid.

FACE CHARGE OF VIOLATING TRUST LAWS

21 Nationally Known Leaders in Medicine Also Named by Federal Jurors.

ENDS TWO-MONTH INQUIRY

Action Follows Alleged Attempt to Thwart Group Health Insurance Program.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The powerful American Medical association, three professional societies and 21 nationally-known leaders in medicine and surgery were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of violating the anti-trust laws.

Specifically, this blue-ribbon aggregation was accused of the alleged restraint of a group health movement undertaken by hundreds of low-income workers.

Two-Month Inquiry.

The indictments were returned after two months of investigation by the grand jury with the assistance of the department of justice and its investigators, and culminated the first phase of a history-making official action against organized medicine.

Chief among those indicted were:

Dr. Morris Fishbein, known as the editor of America's most widely read medical publication, in his capacity as editor of the Journal of the American Medical association.

Olin West, secretary and general manager of the association.

William Creighton Woodward, director of the AMA bureau of legal medicine and legislation.

William Dick Cutter, secretary of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the AMA.

Rosco Genung Leland, director of the bureau of medical economics of the organization.

Organizations Named.

The three professional societies named with the medical association were the Medical society of the District of Columbia; the Harris County Medical society of Houston, Tex., and the Washington Society of Surgery.

It was the first time in history that the federal government had resorted to the anti-trust laws in proceeding against the medical profession and if the defendants are found guilty they are subject to a maximum fine of $5,000 or a year's imprisonment or both.

The grand jury charged that the defendants conspired to thwart the operations of the Group Health association, incorporated, of Washington, D. C., which is a non-profit co-operative association of workers in several government departments. The health association, formed in Washington about a year ago, claims about 2,500 members.

The organization seeks to provide medical care and hospitalization to its members on a risk sharing pre-payment basis.

The defendants, according to the indictments, combined and conspired to hinder and obstruct the group health organization's efforts in obtaining qualified doctors for its medical staff.

All doctors who were willing to assist the group health association were threatened with disciplinary action, it was alleged. In one case the defendants expelled one of their colleagues from the Medical Society of the District of Columbia for participating in the Group Health plan, the jury charged further.

Another Map!

On Page 13 of today's paper, there appears another map—similar in design to the map of South America which appeared last week.

Today's map is of Africa—expected to be the new danger spot in world affairs. The map shows at a glance the various factors entering into the African situation. We suggest that readers preserve the map, for reference when and if trouble develops in Africa.

Last week The News-Journal distributed nearly 2,000 copies of the South American map to school children in the city—for use in classroom work.

CHAPTER 27

Not many of the dormitory students went to town that Sunday night, and of course the students who resided in town were widely scattered, so that relatively few of the collegians knew of Dr. Holgate's adventure before Monday morning. Night extra editions of the papers were not sent out to the Rice campus.

But The Houston Post emblazoned it on Page 1 Monday morning, and at breakfast the talk was high. In the dormitory commons professors and students alike poured over the newspapers. The Post had even printed a picture of Bob Towne and Sara Sue Davis — snapped by a staff man in the hospital corridor—and this added still more interest. Towne, the star football end, and Mrs. Davis, whose Counsel in Romance had been a campus sensation now for some weeks.

"She must be crying," somebody remarked. "She has a handkerchief to her face."

"Probably is. Upset. Didn't know she knew Holgate. She must have been in the swimming party. Odd that a somewhat quiet professor, rather than the athletic Towne, should have done the heroics."

"Says she and Towne just called afterward. They weren't on the party."

"Well, it's tough on Holgate. He ought to get a medal or something—if he pulls through."

The talk was incessant. People hadn't known a lot about Thornton Holgate, not even his fellow professors, but the papers had dug up his entire record. It read rather impressively, especially as to scholarship. The Rice faculty men were pleased to see a bookish scholar be physically competent to be a hero in emergency.

Dr. E. O. Lovett, Rice president, and Dr. Harry B. Weiser, dean, motored to Galveston soon after breakfast, the campus talk said. They telephoned back that Dr. Holgate was still critically ill, and was having every care. A typed report from the registrar's office was posted on the bulletin board in the administration building cloister. Bob Towne overslept — missing first class — but made a full report of the incident when he did appear. He offered no explanation of Sara Sue's interest in the affair, partly because he knew no explanation himself, but he did say that Sara Sue had spent the night in a hotel near John Sealy hospital, where she could be near the injured man. Bob also thought it unnecessary to mention the word-iacing Peaches Pomeroy had given the widow. Peaches herself showed up on the campus about noon, but added little to the information already known now.

She was talking to one group when she almost precipitated another unpleasantness, there in the main sallyport.

"The Davis person stuck her nose into it claiming to be his sister." Peaches was saying. "She's a professional meddler! She's—"

"Why, that's a l— that's not so!" piped up Worthington Gurley, who had been in the group. "Sara Sue Davis wouldn't do that. You're crazy yourself. You're—"

He was violating at least two technical rules. A freshman may not address an upperclass girl on the campus—the sophomores have ruled—and he was speaking disrespectfully anyway. "Scram, slime!" somebody ordered. But, at that, most of the group agreed with him. Peaches was too well known; especially the fact that Bob Towne had dropped her for the new Davis widow.

T. J. Sanders was out at the field house before noon. He couldn't pick up much talk there, though. The negro trainer had only a few crumbs of information, and the coaches hadn't arrived for the day. T. J. went on over to Sara Sue's cottage.

"She ain't here, Mistuh T. J.," Cleopatra informed him. "But you's welcome to come in and set. I bring you a cuppa coffee, suh?"

"Thanks, Cleo. Believe I will. When will Sara Sue return?"

"She down at GalVESton, suh. Mistuh Professuh Holgate, he got hurt. You hear about all that?"

Sanders nodded. He wondered what took Sara Sue down there but reflected that it was none of his business. The thought that she might have personal concern did not occur to him. In fact, it had never occurred to anyone, not even Bob Towne or Peaches Pomeroy. Nobody knew that Sara Sue had been secretly coaching Thornton Holgate in personality development, love making and such allied arts.

"Mighty good coffee, Cleo. You're an excellent cook."

"Aw shuh now, Mistuh T. J. he-heh!" Cleo wabbled her pleasure. And brought him coffee cake. They were alone in the cottage

"Cleo, what does a man have to do to marry Sara Sue?" T J was making talk

"Suh?"

"How can I get next to Sara Sue, and make her like me?"

"Lawd, Mistuh T. J.! You has to have oomph!"

"Oomph?"

"Yas SUH! Miss Sara Sue, she quality folks. Can't nobody go jest peddlin' around with her. You knows her pappy befo' he die? She come from ancestries

T J. grinned Cleo's dialect always delighted him And her ideas were seldom far wrong, either, he had discerned.

"I admit she's quality, Cleo. But how can I corral her for my own?"

"You thinking about making permanent marriage with her? Hones'?"

"Well, it's an idea. Isn't it?"

"Sho is. Yas, suh. But is you good enough for her?"

"No, I'm sure I'm not. But—" He really meant that, too, he reflected.

"Naw, suh. You ain't, and that's a fack. Ain't no young man good enough. But, then, it has to be some allowances made, I reckons.' Cleo was quite serious about it, and so T. J. did not laugh openly.

"Bes' thing I knows is to make deep love to her all the time, suh. Jes don't never give up. I helps you all I can, suh. You rates high with my opinion."

"Sa-a-ay, thanks, Cleo! That's a compliment, sure 'nough. Now listen, Cleo—say, here's a five-dollar bill. Just between you and me. For good luck and friendship. And there might be another five-dollar bill, almost any week-end I happened to drop in like this. I figure your excellent coffee and rolls are worth that, at least. You understand, Cleo?"

"Yas, SUH! I should say I does! Thank you, suh!"

Cleo accepted and concealed the money in some cavernous recess of her great bosom, smiling broadly, happily. She poured more coffee, talking the while.

"I starts right in to help you, suh, the minute Miss Sara Sue set foot in that do'. Anything I can do, you jest calls on me, Mistuh T. J. I know she's goin' be awful disappointed she miss seein' you this mornin', but you jes' come back when you can. Yassuh."

"Thanks, Cleo. You're a gem."

"Yassuh."

"Ah—Cleo."

"Suh?"

"I wonder if I happen to have much competition. That is—are any other men, boys, making serious love to Sara Sue? You know what I mean. She's so pretty and all."

"Yassuh, ain't she lovely? An' sweet! I 'clare to goodness, Mr. T. J., she the pretties white girl I ever is see! I been knowin' her since she was in diapers. I nurse for Mrs.—"

"Yes, yes indeed, Cleo. But now as to the others—?"

"Yasuh, it's some other young men likes her, too. Mistuh Bob, he got a bad case on her. And Mr. Worthin'ton—he awful young, but he sho smitten, heh-heh! But they don't .gimme as much you you does, suh."

'How?" T. J. cocked his head at that, looked quizzically at the negress.

"They pays me quite gen'rus to help them, too, but not no five dolluhs, naw suh! You the onliest one what's tip me that much, suh. Have some mo' coffee, Mistuh T. J.?"

T. J. swallowed, mopped his brow with a handkerchief, and grinned wryly. Finally he chuckled. Well, it was his own deal he reflected! Still grinning, he arose to go.

"Um. Well, I must be going, Cleo. Ad valorem."

"Yassuh, I sho will."

Sheriff E. P. Long removed John Oney, 45, of Shiloh to the penitentiary to begin a one-to-20-year term for violation of his probation.

Oney's probation, granted in November, 1937, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of threatening to wound or kill, was revoked after he admitted becoming intoxicated.

In the same trip the sheriff took Miss Dora Fryson, 22, colored. Mansfield, to the Marysville reformatory to serve a one-to-20-year sentence for cutting with intent to wound.

Toledo Cagers Rip Dartmouth

Chuckovits Scores 17 Points in 57 to 43 Victory Over Eastern Power.

(By Associated Press)

THIS Beautiful Ohio is anything but a happy hunting grounds for invading big-name cage teams.

Coach Harold Anderson's Toledo University Rockets sheared the looks of mighty Dartmouth last night for their fifth consecutive court victory in as many contests to date. The score was 57 to 43.

Grabs Early Lead.

Five minutes after the game opened, the speedy Toledo quintet hit a point-a-minute tempo—paced by the wily Chuck Chuckovits, who turned in eight goals and a charity toss for 17 points. Pat Hintz, Dartmouth guard, scored 12 tallies.

The rockets led 27-14 at the half. Anderson sent in a reserve contingent as the easterners, acknowledged cream of New England talent, fell further behind.

Akron University, in another intersectional go, nosed out Central State Teachers of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., 29 to 23, although the visitors led at the half, 17-15. Akron's Frankie Ferris tallied 16 points.

John Carroll's Blue Streaks drubbed Mount Union at Alliance in an Ohio conference battle, 34 to 24. It was Mount's initial loss of the season. Carroll was ahead at intermission, 18-9. Center Morgan Rudick of Carroll netted 13 points.

Ohio University's Bobcats crushed Buffalo University, 58 to 38, in a one-sided encounter in the Bison City.

Lutherans Beaten.

Other Buckeye quintets on tour met defeat. Washington College romped over Wittenberg at Cresertown, Md., 60 to 34. The University of Chicago breezed to a 33 to 16 win over Oberlin, holding the whip hand from the start. Duquesne University humbled Ohio Wesleyan, 52 to 28. Center Paul Widowitz and Forward Morris Becker amassed 31 of Duquesne's points. At the half, Duquesne led 24-16. Guard Jack Buttermore of Wesleyan scored 13 markers.

RANGY PLAYERS STILL CARRY EDGE IN THIS COURT GAME.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

HEIGHT HELPS—They have removed the center jump from basketball, and they have changed the rules so that now the sport is much speedier and gives the small, fast fellow more of an even change. But tall players still come in handy, especially those who know their way around the basket. This was very evident out at the high school the other evening when Mansfield bowed to Hamilton, 32 to 27. Hamilton won the ball game, but about the only difference between the two clubs was Chet Lairson, who towers six feet-five. His height gave Hamilton virtually every rebound.

WHOOPS M'DEAR—A pair of lace-trimmed silk panties may have a bearing on the outcome of the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2. Eric Tipton and Dan Hill, co-captains of the Duke eleven, received the panties after a Los Angeles sports writer had compared them and their teammates to a bunch of Wellesley college girls. According to the United Press, the ultra-feminine garments were addressed to "Co-Captains Eunice Hill and Agnes Tipton" with the suggestion that they wear them in the Rose bowl. The reaction of the men on the Duke squad was terrific. Though the panties were pretty enough, the gesture behind them was like a red flag in the face of a bull. The panties will probably reappear in the Duke dressing room the day of the game. So, maybe, the Trojans will have to bear the brunt of the joke before its all over.

MILLER THROUGH — Lloyd Miller, who was probably the best halfback in Ohio high schools last year—Ask the Tygers—has been ruled ineligible. There was considerable controversy over Miller's age. The Akron Kenmore star was born in Doylestown and his birth certificate was filed in the Wayne county courthouse at Wooster. However, when the courthouse was destroyed by fire, all birth records were lost. The matter was put before the Ohio high school athletic association. It ruled Miller ineligible.

TOO BAD, CARL—Carl Kaplanoff was tickled when he learned he had been chosen as a prospective member of the Green Bay Packers. But he's moanin' now. His contract has been transferred from the Packers to Brooklyn.

MISSED CONNECTIONS—When the Notre Dame football team was sightseeing in San Francisco after the Southern California game it asked to be taken to the wharf section to see Joe DiMaggio's place. They saw the place, all right, but not the Yankee baseball star, who had gone down to Los Angeles to see them.

Giants, Cubs Traded Cripples, Eh!

WHO WON?—Who got the best of the trade between the Giants and the Cubs involving Dick Bartell and Billy Jurges? Bill Terry, we understand, sent Bartell to the Cubs because the veteran shortstop has elbow trouble. The Cubs say Jurges has a chronic wrist injury.

A FAN WRITES — Pittsburgh lost the National league pennant by a nose and the Duke game by a foot . . . Another one says about the Giants' infield: "That Myatt at third base ran halfway across the diamond to throw last year. With Bonura on first he'll have to run all the way across and hand the ball to him."

All three New York clubs—the Giants, Yankees and Dodgers—plan to air their games for the first time next season. Ruth indicated he has been approached by representatives of firms interested in sponsoring the broadcasts.

DUKE TEAM ENTRAINS FOR PASADENA, BOWL

DURHAM, N. C. —(U.P.)— "It's westward ho" for Duke today and everybody but the coaching staff was happy as the Blue Devils worked out briefly before entraining for Pasadena and the Rose Bowl.

Coaches were gloomy but for reasons unknown. They did say, however, that the players were too exuberant off the field and sometimes on, and that they fear an attack of overconfidence.

The team leaves at 4 p. m. this afternoon on a 10-car special train and will practice at Pine Bluff, Ark., and Lubbock, Tex. Duke arrives at Pasadena early Saturday morning.

Liederkranz Keglers Set Two New Records

Roll 3098 Series, 1097 Game In Club League Match; Duke Weber Sets Pace With 657.

TWO NEW RECORDS were written into the record book of the Club Handicap league at the Meder alleys last night by the Leiderkranz club.

The Liederkranz club came through with a record-smashing 3098 series as it took two games from the Mansfield Savings Bank keglers to climb into a tie for first place with the Commercial Managers. Games of 923, 1097 (a new record) and 1078 were rolled by the Liederkranz pin pounders.

Duke Weber, who finished with a 248, led the attack with a 657. A middle game of 254 enabled Henry Michaels to reach the 646 figures and Harold Selby poled out a 259 and 632.

The American Legion club blasted 2798 pins to the pits, but a big handicap forced it to bow to the Baku Grotto in two games. Opening with a 242, Brig Young led the Legionnaires with a 642. Pete Grohol, with a middle game of 245, rolled a 613.

In the other matches, the Mansfield Athletic club took two games from the Page Dairys, the J. A. C. club swept its series with the Optimists, the Schoolmasters added two from the Tracy & Avery club and the Kiwanians took a pair from the Commercial Managers.

BILL LEE OF CUBS LEADS NATIONAL LOOP PITCHERS

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — William Crutcher Lee, jr., strong man of the Chicago Cubs, was the leading pitcher of the National league last season, official figures released today showed.

The big righthander led both in percentages with .710 and in earned runs with an average of 2.66 per nine-inning game to dominate the circuit's mound corps as completely as Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants formerly had done.

SET SKATING DATES

One-Man Shows Feature Games

Jerry Hontas of Canton McKinley Listed Among Outstanding High School Performers.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The "Dead-eye Dicks" of Ohio scholastic basketball, flipping field goals from all corners of the court and amassing points in clusters, stole the high school cage show from the teams this week.

From all sections of the state came stories of brilliant "one-man shows" and scintillating performances as individual stars pulled their mates to victory. Here are just a few!

Jerry Hontas of Canton McKinley scored 16 points to beat Akron West 42 to 38; Darling of Liberty's Class B quintet racked up 26, one more than the entire Leavittsburg team scored in losing 56 to 25; Hillis Hume of Alliance scored a last-minute field goal to nose out Struthers 26-24, and then counted 16 the next night to beat Youngstown Chaney 43 to 20 for the Aviators' third straight; Earl Fisher of New Philadelphia outscored the entire Akron Hower team, getting 20 points as his team won 46 to 13; Paul Herman of Massillon annexted 17 as the Tigers whipped Youngstown Chaney 45 to 19, and Bob Shaw of Fremont Ross scored 20 as his squad took a 32-31 decision over Port Clinton.

But Fails to Win.

Not all the high-scorers, however, were able to bring their teams into the victors' circle. Joe Grieselding, captain of Tiffin Calvert, chalked up 20 points but lost to Upper Sandusky 34 to 29, Capt. Tommy Ulrich of the winners getting 18 markers. Lou Trabitz of Cleveland John wasted 19 points in the 26-27 loss to Garfield Heights, in which Jack Hodge of the winners was a goat one minute and a hero the next. One point behind in the last minute, Hodge missed two free throws, but sank a field goal a few seconds later to snatch the victory.

From down in the hills of Lawrence county, where the famed Waterloo Wonders grabbed a 23 to 8 victory over Decatur, came word that Magellan Hairston, who led that team to two straight Class B titles, is back at the coaching reins again after a year's absence. And his new team, the boys say, is just as flashy and classy as the "wonder" outfit which dominated Ohio a few years back.

Up in Northwestern Ohio another Class B team, Gibsonburg, is cutting capers. The boys from that burg have scored 254 points to 180 for the foe in winning six straight, one being a 28-26 verdict over the Class A Toledo Devilbiss squad.

Newark, Class A champ in 1936 and 1938, tore down two tough foes last week, smacking Findlay's strong squad 21 to 17, and toppling Hamilton's Big Blue aggregation 26 to 23. It was the first loss in four starts for Hamilton, 1937 state champ. Bob Forgraves gets most of the credit for the Newark showing, his sterling defensive play standing out in each encounter.

Bridgeport and New Philadelphia, the eastern district's Class A representative in the 1938 state meet, are unbeaten. Bridgeport tripped Woodsfield 54 to 16 and Powhatan 66 to 24 last night, and New Philly's Quakers have decisions over Zanesville, 41-20; Dennison 27-25, and Akron Hower, 46-13. Cadiz, Class B entrant from the same sector, beat Flushing 53 to 16 for its second straight, but meets Holloway, winner of seven in a row tonight. Cumberland's Class B team continued its "funny" career, losing to Senecaville 20 to 11 Friday night and then romping over Old Washington 58 to 4.

Mt. Vernon scored its fourth win, 43 to 24, over Galion, but the Class B teams are stealing the spotlight in that area. Centerburg has won six straight, and Amity nine of 10. Bladensburg, in its first year of cage play, absorbed its sixth loss, 7-59, at the hands of Amity, giving the losers 47 points for their six tilts while the opposition has garnered 388.

A week ago Dayton had seven unbeaten teams, but today there are but two, Oakwood and Fairmont, the former with one victory and the latter with two. Steele, Chaminade, Kiser, Fairview and Dunbar all fell by the wayside in the week's heavy firing.

Toronto, minus Kincaid who led the state in scoring last year, topped New Cumberland, W. Va., 42 to 27, in the opener Friday, and Portsmouth's huge Trojans also inaugurated their drive with a win 20 to 11 over a weak Columbus South squad which lost the next night to New Boston's Class B team, 41 to 31. Carl Martin, New Boston's all-state center, scored 21 points against South.

Narrow Margins.

Central Catholic of Springfield has won a pair by the narrowest of margins. Dayton Co-operating was beaten 18-16 with a field goal in the last five seconds, and against the Ohio School for the Deaf Saturday night the Tornadoes' forward, Joe Meyers, a substitute, tossed a free-throw in the last 10 seconds to deadlock at 16-all. In the sudden death overtime Meyers looped a fielder, after the visitors had counted a one-pointer. Central Catholic winning 18 to 17.

Lima Central defeated Celina 22 to 18 to remain the only unbeaten in Allen county, but South showed power in beating Springfield by 37 to 22. Sandusky offers a pair of potential greats in Class B St. Marys. 1936 state champ, which has won three straight, and Sandusky high which nosed out Toledo Waite 31-30 Friday night.

Northwestern No Match for Eastern Quintets

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Northwestern's cagers were homeward bound today with nothing to show except two defeats in the invasion of the east. But Michigan apparently was thriving on intersectional fare.

The Wildcats, victims of St. John's in New York City Saturday, fell before a strong Temple University team last night, 32 to 29, while Michigan defeated Syracuse, 39 to 37.

It was the Wolverines' third straight win by a two-point margin, having previously turned back Notre Dame and Rochester University.

Wisconsin lost its second consecutive game last night, bowing to Butler 24 to 21. Iowa lost to Butler Saturday night but regained its winning combination last night with a 34 to 29 victory over DePaul. Capt. Fennie Stephens, all-conference forward last season, hit the hoop for 13 points.

Dick Lounsbury, Chicago's high-scoring center, led a flashy Maroon attack on Oberlin, scoring 13 points as his team breezed to an easy 33 to 16 triumph.

Purdue remained among the Big Ten's six undefeated teams with a crushing 51 to 30 decision over Connecticut State, loser last week to Indiana.

Conference teams have played 33 games with outside opponents thus far, winning 30.

The only Big Ten team in action tonight is Wisconsin, which will be striving to break a two-game losing streak after getting away to three victories in a row earlier in the season. The Badgers meet Xavier at Cincinnati.

AFRICA—THE WORLD'S NEXT TROUBLE SPOT?

On the shores of the Mediterranean sea rages a quarrel that is making big news. Whether it will make still bigger news in the days to come only one man knows—Benito Mussolini.

So far it is only a quarrel of words—words about colonies in Africa, a continent of immense riches, much of it yet undeveloped.

Italy wants colonies. In 1936 she conquered Ethiopia. Now her eyes are turned toward Tunisia, the rich, fertile French protectorate that lies west of Italy's arid, barren Libya.

The cry has been raised in the Italian press — the government says nothing. France, backed by England, says she will fight before she yields an inch of soil. And the Italians raised their cry while France is torn with strikes and internal dissension.

What does Benito Mussolini want? Does he want Tunisia? Or does he want only greater concessions for Italy in Tunisia? Or does he want control of Djibouti, the seaport terminus of his Ethiopian railway in French Somaliland? Does he think France will be glad to give him this if he silences the clamor for Tunisia?

Only Benito Mussolini knows.

In the picture also is Germany, fascist partner of Italy.

What will be Hitler's next demands? Will he seek further expansion in Europe? Or will he demand return of the colonies the allies seized after the world war? Will he back Mussolini in his colonial demands?

Again only one man knows—Adolf Hitler.

The partitioning of Africa occurred in the last quarter of the nineteenth century. In 1875 the only European powers with any considerable interest in Africa were Britain, Portugal and France.

But colonial ambitions were stirring in the other nations of Europe, and the next 25 years saw a mad scramble for African territory. By 1900 the situation had jelled and the system of colonies and spheres of influence remained about as it was until the world war.

This map tells you some of the reasons why African colonies are important to European nations. We hope it will enable you better to understand the current news.

RENTAL HOUSING PROJECT TOTAL SHOWING GAINS

FHA Reports Reveal Agency Insures 163 Operations in Period.

Since the amended National Housing act went into effect last February, the FHA has issued commitments to insure 163 large-scale multi-family housing projects, involving mortgages totaling $60,313,950, which will provide living accommodations at reasonable rentals for 14,843 families, Administrator Stewart McDonald announced.

This volume of rental housing activity, financed with private capital under terms of the FHA's insured mortgage system, has been developed in nine months and follows the passage by Congress of amendments which expanded the scope of the rental housing program. Increased participation in the program by local private financial institutions, together with the amendments to the act, has been an important influence in this upturn of rental housing building throughout the country.

Five In Operation.

Of these 163 projects, five have already been completed and are in operation. Mortgages totaling $1,074,000 were insured by the FHA in the financing of these projects. An additional 65 are now under construction, involving mortgages totaling $19,551,600, which will provide adequate rental accommodations for 5,056 families. Financing has been arranged on 47 more projects involving a mortgage total of $11,774,350, which would provide 2,924 family dwelling units, and 46 others are classed as "commitments outstanding," involving $27,944,000 in mortgages, which would provide 6,545 family dwelling units.

The progress made in rental housing development during the past nine months may be noted by a comparison with the total rental housing volume insured by the FHA since the inception of the program.

On Oct. 31, 1938, the FHA had on its books total active commitments to insure 217 rental housing mortgages totaling $105,613,900, representing developments which would provide accommodations for 27,509 families and would embrace a capitalization of $138,254,469.

DINING ROOM DECOR

The coolest colored dining room imaginable is done in crisp, pale green and furnished in natural finished walnut. The rug, almost entirely covering the walnut floor, matches the painted walls. The trim is a slightly darker green and the curtains framing the large window space are likewise green with horizontal double stripes of cream color. The ceiling is painted deep ivory.

GEORGIAN LIVING ROOM

A Georgian living room contrasts its soft green painted walls and ceiling with Venetian blinds and draperies of eggshell. The rug is in needlepoint design, the sofa is upholstered in old gold fabric and two chairs are covered with rough silk that is slightly darker than the walls.

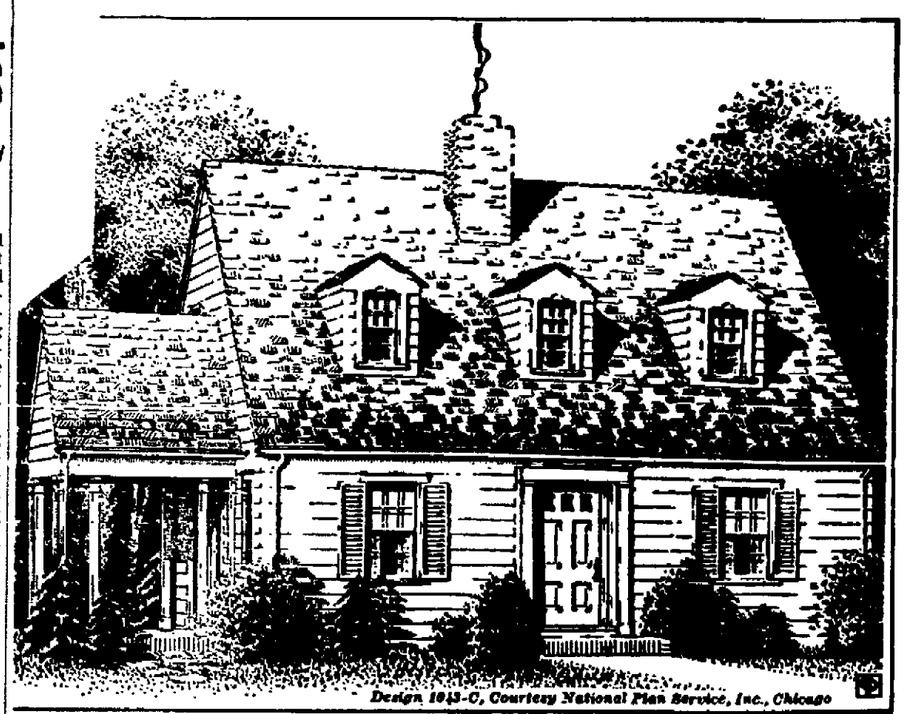
Goat Hair Once Used For Dye.

A now obsolete pigment of reddish orange color that was very impermanent and of poor quality was made by immersing goats hair in madder dye for a period of three days, then removing the hair and dissolving it in a potash solution which, after further preparation, became the finished product.

COLONIAL HOUSE

A colonial house painted cream color with dull red shutters, is effectively topped by a wood brown roof.

Attractive to Average Family



Design 1043-C, Courtesy National Plan Service, Inc., Chicago

(By Central Press)

The small frame house in Cape Cod architecture always is attractive to the family which wants a modest home of good proportions and comfortable arrangement, but one that is economical to build.

The two-story frame cottage pictured is such a house. It has a large living room, with central hearth, from which opens a pleasant porch on the side of the house. The dining room, the other side of the vestibule, has built-in china cases. The kitchen is handily arranged and has a dining nook overlooking the garden.

Upstairs are two bedrooms, with dormer windows, a number of closets, and bathroom. The stairways are all at the back of the house, going up from the back end of the living room and also communicating with the kitchen.

Size of the main building is 28 by 22 feet; size over all, 37 by 26 feet. Total cubage, 13,400 cubic feet.

CURE OF DEFECTIVE FIREPLACE USUALLY EASILY ACCOMPLISHED

A fireplace filled with cheerful, crackling flames adds to the joy of living during the long Winter evenings, if it is a well-built, efficient unit. If the home owner is unfortunate enough to have a fireplace that is not properly built, those same crackling flames give off a smothering smoke that makes life miserable for everyone in the room and relegates the fireplace to a strictly decorative capacity.

The usual defective fireplace is not incurable. The only excuse for smoking fireplaces is in a case where a hill or a clump of trees rises higher than the chimney and causes a downdraught.

The cause of improper functioning may be too small a flue or one that does not start directly over the center of the fireplace and has a sharp turn in it. Or it may be that the flue is clogged. Other causes for inefficient operation may be too high an opening, lack of a smoke shelf, an inadequate smoke chamber, a damper that does not fit the opening, or a chimney that is not tall enough to clear the highest roof ridge.

All these faults may be corrected. Repairs may be financed with the proceeds of a property improvement credit plan loan. The money may be obtained from private lenders qualified by the Federal Housing administration.

Boats of Turkish Fishermen.

The boats of the Turkish fishermen making daily excursions from the Istanbul waterfront, are painted in gay colors with floral and bird decorations ornamenting them. Sometimes a decorative border runs entirely around the exterior of the boat, but the main resigns are on an upstanding board which divides the prow from the hold.

BUYERS FAVOR AIRCRAFT AND STEEL STOCKS

Commodities Trifle Uneven as Bonds Maintain Steady Position.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Mild buying support came back to the stock market today and selected issues edged up fractions to a point or so.

Favored were Bethlehem Steel, Inland Steel, Boeing, Sperry, Hendix, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, du-Pont and Texas Corp.

Brokers said some belated tax selling was in evidence after shifting of commitments for the income returns seemed to have dried up.

Bonds maintained a steady position. Commodities were a trifle uneven.

In connection with the steels, market analysts noted forecasts in this industry that operations for the first quarter of next year probably would not average much above 55 per cent of ingot capacity.

Plethora of idle funds again was stressed by figures of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Dec. 14, disclosing adjusted demand deposits had mounted to a new high aggregate of $16,221,000,000, a rise of $1,546,000,000 over a year ago.

The treasury announced that its weekly sale of bills was accomplished at an average rate of .006 per cent, a record low charge for this type of financing.

JURY QUESTIONS MUSICA'S WIFE

Sisters Also Called as U. S. Opens Inquiry in Gigantic Swindle Case.

ing been contacted. The Boston consul for Honduras, in denying he or his government had been approached, said that if any attempt was made to sell the weapons to Honduras "it is certain that it was German or Italian money making the purchase, and the purpose would plainly be an attempt to obtain commercial domination of Central America."

Three brothers, all of whom under assumed names were associated either directly or indirectly with Philip and the drug firm, are confronted with federal and state charges.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey charged the Musica quartet had taken nearly $4,000,000 in cash from McKesson & Robbins, a firm with listed assets of $87,000,000 but $18,000,000 of these cannot be found. When his investigation is completed, Dewey indicated thefts from the drug concern might go as high as $16,259,375.

These disclosures came when a New York county grand jury returned indictments charging grand larceny and forgery against Arthur Musica, better known as "George Vernard," George Musica, who as "George Dietrich" was assistant treasurer and assistant vice-president of McKesson & Robbins, and Robert Musica, who as "Robert Dietrich" worked for the firm purchased by Philip in 1926, a "John Doe" and a "Richard Roe."

The federal government, holding each in default of $100,000 bail on charges of filing false information with the securities and exchange commission, made it clear it would press its case first.

"We have evidence of defalcations where actual cash was taken," said Acting U. S. Attorney Gregory Noonan who, when asked if any member of congress seemed to be involved in the case, replied:

"If any is, he will be granted no immunity. This is probably a more widespread fraud than any in my memory. The principals operated in 48 states."

As federal, state and county authorities pushed their investigations into the ever-changing puzzle left by the financial wizard, Charles F. Michaels, executive vice president of the drug firm, resigned as one of the two trustees named to guide it through reorganization proceedings. Michaels said he and his family always have been large holders of McKesson & Robbins preferred stock and he resigned to avoid any possible conflict of interest.

Probes Stock Sale.

Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall is anxious to learn why Michaels sold 15,042 shares of McKesson & Robbins common stock for $118,530 a few weeks before Coster was unveiled.

Dewey gave an insight into the setup of the "Coster" dynasty by revealing that the theft of nearly $4,000,000 was made possible by a complicated array of five fictitious companies. The $4,000,000 was paid in commissions on fake transactions in crude drugs. The total amount involved in these transactions was $16,250,000 which, Dewey charged, actually was paid by McKesson & Robbins to the five "dummy" concerns.

The Musica connection with munitions was disclosed before McCall by Frederic Wingirsky, vice president in charge of the McKesson & Robbins legal department. He laid a copy of a 2,000,000 rifle contract, which involved $50,000,000 and, according to the witness, had been ordered drafted by "Coster, on the assistant attorney general's desk. It called for an initial shipment of 100,000 "absolutely new" Lee-Enfield rifles of 1917-18 manufacture, 30-calibre, 10py specifications (modified), each complete with bayonet and 1,000 rounds of ammunition of 1930-35 manufacture. They were to be dispatched to a "British port for a non-belligerent nation." Names of all contracting parties, however, were blank.

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Brian McMahon insisted he intends to "go all the way to the top" in his probing of the Musicas' financial manipulations. He branded "Coster" a bigger bootlegger than either Johnny Torrio or Al Capone and stated evidence indicated that repeal did not bring a halt to the former convict's operations.

20 On NYA Rolls Begin Repairing Old Blockhouse

Mansfield's oldest landmark — the historic blockhouse in South park, ravaged by fire several weeks ago, was being repaired today by National Youth Administration workers.

Twenty youths employed on a woodworking project at South park, under the supervision of Carl Heim, have scraped down the charred timbers and are now engaged in laying new flooring in the building, Service Director Earl A. Nist said.

When the flooring is completed, new windows will be installed and heavy shutters will be placed over the panes.

The work is expected to be completed early next month, making the building ready for occupancy by Boy Scout troop 6 which had held its meeting in the old structure up until the time of the fire.

The materials for the job were purchased by a $300 settlement made by the insurance companies which held policies on the building.

Shows Travelog

Travelog motion pictures made by Rev. Karl G. Sabiers, above, will be shown by Rev. Sabiers at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Church of the Foursquare Gospel, 168 South Adams street. Rev. Sabiers recently completed a trip around the world and made an extensive study of the world's principal religious beliefs, which are depicted in the picture.

SCHOOL BOARD RENTS BUILDINGS

Garage and Republican Office to Be Used as Classrooms for Simpson Pupils.

Hedges building where half-day schedules will be in effect.

Classes also will be on a half-day basis at the John Simpson building where nearly 600 pupils will be accommodated in the newer, fireproof section of the present building which will become a part of the new structure.

Workmen today were removing desks, blackboards, lighting fixtures and other equipment from the old John Simpson building, and razing of the structure is scheduled to start this week.

Most of the building will be demolished during the Christmas holidays so as to eliminate danger to pupils who will attend school there after classes are resumed Jan. 4.

The school board last night approved requests for bids on plumbing, heating and wiring for elementary buildings which will be remodeled under the $1,000,000 building program.

BALL ADDS $850 TO BASKET FUND

Acrobats and Jane Wilson Star as Floor Show Goes Over Before Crowd of 1,250.

little more than a year ago to join the Fred Waring company.

Ray and Trent, so far removed from the old-time acrobats that they cannot be placed in that class, and yet doing acrobatic stunts that no other team in the world has ever attempted, were given an ovation that almost lifted the arched roof of the big Coliseum.

They work in very smart business suits, combining comedy pantomime with almost unbelievable feats, doing them with an air of ease which makes the audience forget that a single slip may mean a broken neck. They were called back several times for additional feats.

Jane Wilson, who is 100 pounds of glamour and talent, stopped the show with her first number and the audience refused to let it go on until she came back and sang another. She appeared twice and for her second encore sang "Sibboney" which was her hit song of last year's Christmas show.

A gay and colorful melange of music and dancing made up the show. There was the Two Maids and a Man trio, Jane Weuthrick, Ruth Cox and Lawrence Chamberlain, making its first public appearance with two tuneful numbers; the Westinghouse glee club and the specialties put on by Bob Richard's Westinghouse orchestra —which gave one of the best programs of dance music Mansfield has heard in months.

Martha Metcalfe was given a big hand for her difficult toe tap dance and Mary Van Arnheim pleased with a song and clever tap.

The two choruses, the Hoganettes from the Marty Hogan dance studio, and the Speasettes from the Marguerite Speas studio, added a gay and colorful touch to the show. The Hoganettes, eight girls in attractive evening dreses, did a smart Lambeth Walk tap, and the Speasettes in stunning costumes of gold metallic cloth trimmed in aqua, did a tap. Miss Speas led her chorus of six.

The Hogan ensemble included Eleanor Hattman, Lucille Antrican, Louise Walker, June Ford, Mary Hyman, Norma Howell, Esther Pfaff and Miss Van Arnheim. The Speas chorus was made up of Vivian Walter, Jerry Brightbill, Martha Metcalfe, Betty Underwood, Dorothy Sloan and Jean Schill.

The finale brought all performers back to the floor, with the Speasettes as prancing reindeers with silver antlers, and Miss Speas as a "streamlined" Kris Kringle in red satin and white fur; the Hoganettes to do a fast tap to the merry notes of "Jingle Bells." An attractive feature was the appearance of a lovely little Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, wearing the masks and costumes of the Disney characters. Little Miss Jean Yeager was Snow White in pink and white satin, and dwarfs were played by William Frazz, Russell Ferrell, Bob Bovard, William Harper, William Shelly and two girls from the Hogan studio.

The show got under way when the American Legion drum corps, under the direction of Howard Newman, played a fan-fare. Legionnaires in uniform also were in charge of the reserved boxes last night.

Besides the people who worked in the show, and those who sold tickets for it, a number of citizens and companies contributed hours of volunteer service. J. M. Barnett, Westinghouse engineer, took over the big job of setting up the floor for the show, installing lights, setting up the stage, hanging curtains and working out mechanical problems.

Baird and Richards spent hours working out the plans for the show and the two dance studios spent two weeks training their choruses; city firemen at No. 1 station under Capt. Paul Young covered the traffic standards which were used to set up the boxes; The Honse Sign company and John Kuhlman of the Raemelton farm assisted in decorating; R. B. Gardner and John Hattery, jr., contributed Christmas trees, the George Lehr Awning company and the Home Materials company set up the attractive flower and candy booths; William Grassick gave his public address system; the Jones Piano House set up one of its new electrically controlled minipianos for the orchestra; Harry Delaney and Frank Forshee contributed flood lights.

The Shelley and the Painter confectionary companies donated candy.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Ott were co-chairmen of the ticket committee and Mrs. A. Jay Zahniser was chairman of the box reservations.

STUDIES POWER PLAN FOR CITY

Mayor Says Proposal Would Generate Electricity With Aid of Sewage Gas.

past 11 months could have been saved. Electricity used by the plant the last 11 months cost $8,100.

Turner's report contained figures showing the daily gas production which he explained showed some variations due to times when portions of the sewage as not fully treated resulting in a proportionate drop in gas.

"We believe we now have control of the worst of these conditions so we can reasonably expect higher gas production during the months that show lower levels," Turner said.

He pointed out that gas engine equipment for generating power is now being used in numerous cities and in most cases the investment has paid for itself in two years.

Among the cities now utilizing sewage gas successfully for power development, Turner said, were Springfield, Ill., Toledo, New York city, Janesville, Wis., Ann Arbor, Mich., Peoria, Ill., Topeka, Kans., Dunham, N. C., Richmond, Ind., LaCrosse, Wis., Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aurora, Ill., Kokomo, Ind., and Green Bay, Wis.

Turner suggested that a council committee be appointed to visit some of these plants to obtain price data.

$358,000 SPENT ON ENGINEERING PROJECTS IN '38

Improvements Totaled $106,000 More Than Previous Year, Report Shows.

City engineers during the past year spent one of the busiest 12 months ever recorded in the history of the engineering department, the annual report of City Engineer W. C. Statler filed today with Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist showed.

Aided by WPA funds, engineering projects during 1938 totaled $358,200, or $106,800 more than was spent the previous year.

Of this amount the city spent $184,700, which was $56,000 more than was expended in 1937, the report showed. Federal funds which went into Mansfield improvements totaled $173,500 as compared with $123,200 for the year previous, an increase of more than $50,000.

The largest increase was shown in sidewalk construction where $75,500 was expended as compared with $24,500 in 1937.

Sidewalk Work Tripled.

The report showed that 180,000 square feet of sidewalks were laid in the city this year as compared with 60,800 square feet in 1937. Besides the three miles of new walks laid, nearly four miles of sidewalks were repaired throughout the city.

The report also showed an increase of more than 400 per cent in the construction of sanitary sewers. This year $40,100 was spent for the construction of nearly 14,000 feet of new sanitary sewers as compared with $9,000 for this purpose in 1937.

Street paving, widening and curb and gutters construction and repairs totaled $90,000, of which the property owners and city paid $53,300 and WPA contributed $36,700.

Water main extensions throughout the city and a new 150,000 gallon storage tank and booster pumps at the Woodland reservoir totaled $138,000 or nearly double the amount spent last year.

Improvements in the city also included a new No. 2 fire station now under construction on North Main street.

Statler's report said that plans and estimates now complete and on file in the engineering offices called for the construction of storm sewers on 11 streets, sanitary sewers on five streets and resurfacing of five streets, besides plans for the landscaping of the city parks system.

Lists Recommendations.

An exhaustive list of recommendations, one which proposes a traffic survey to determine the feasibility of rerouting state and federal highways to relieve traffic congestion was incorporated in the report.

Statler's recommendation proposes no contemplated routes but merely states that the survey be conducted to determine the feasibility of such action.

Elimination of roof water from sanitary sewers and the rebuilding of bridges over Touby's run at West Sixth street and Bowman street, were the other two new recommendations. Numerous other proposals are repetition of those suggested in previous years.

In connection with water improvements, Statler advised the construction of additional mains and the annual inspection of all valves in the distribution system.

For the fourth consecutive year, included in the report was recommendations for a north-south highway in the western part of the city to connect Park avenue and Springmill street and involving the construction of a viaduct over railroad right-of-way where the proposed street would cross them.

Again included in the report were recommendations for a public parking ground in the business district to alleviate the increasing traffic congestion; the grading of all unimproved streets to the established grades; continuation of sidewalk repairs; the planning of additional main line sanitary sewers, and to provide for additional park areas and recreational centers.

WOMAN RETAINS PROSECUTOR JOB

Only Woman County Attorney in Nebraska Defends Her Sex in Public Office.

BLAIR, Neb.—(U.P.)—"A woman's place is wherever her interests lie," said Grace Ballard of Blair, re-elected Washington county attorney for her third term.

As for politics, she says it's ridiculous to bar women from public office merely on the basis of sex.

"There is not a county, district, state or national office, except perhaps that of policing, that women cannot fill as satisfactorily as men," she declared.

Nebraska's only woman county attorney looks back over a quarter century of association with men in the practice of law and declares she never has asked consideration because of her sex.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska law school in 1914, Miss Ballard started her public career by going to Pennsylvania, where she campaigned for the Pennsylvania State Women Suffrage association.

She spent another year in such work in New York. When the suffrage amendment became certain of adoption she returned to Blair to open a law office.

Miss Ballard always worked on the theory that there was an immediate place for women in politics. In 1918 she was elected Washington county attorney and served four years. She returned to private practice then held the same office again in 1934. This year she was without opposition in the primary and general election.

JURY QUESTIONS MUSICA'S WIFE

Sisters Also Called as U. S. Opens Inquiry in Gigantic Swindle Case.

ing been contacted. The Boston consul for Honduras, in denying he or his government had been approached, said that if any attempt was made to sell the weapons to Honduras "it is certain that it was German or Italian money making the purchase, and the purpose would plainly be an attempt to obtain commercial domination of Central America."

Three brothers, all of whom under assumed names were associated either directly or indirectly with Philip and the drug firm, are confronted with federal and state charges.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey charged the Musica quartet had taken nearly $4,000,000 in cash from McKesson & Robbins, a firm with listed assets of $87,000,000 but $18,000,000 of these cannot be found. When his investigation is completed, Dewey indicated thefts from the drug concern might go as high as $16,250,375.

These disclosures came when a New York county grand jury returned indictments charging grand larceny and forgery against Arthur Musica, better known as "George Vernard," George Musica, who as "George Dietrich" was assistant treasurer and assistant vice-president of McKesson & Robbins, and Robert Musica, who as "Robert Dietrich" worked for the firm purchased by Philip in 1926, a "John Doe" and a "Richard Roe."

The federal government, holding each in default of $100,000 bail on charges of filing false information with the securities and exchange commission, made it clear it would press its case first.

"We have evidence of defalcations where actual cash was taken," said Acting U. S. Attorney Gregory Noonan who, when asked if any member of congress seemed to be involved in the case, replied:

"If any is, he will be granted no immunity. This is probably a more widespread fraud than any in my memory. The principals operated in 48 states."

As federal, state and county authorities pushed their investigations into the ever-changing puzzle left by the financial wizard, Charles F. Michaels, executive vice president of the drug firm, resigned as one of the two trustees named to guide it through reorganization proceedings. Michaels said he and his family always have been large holders of McKesson & Robbins preferred stock and he resigned to avoid any possible conflict of interest.

Probes Stock Sale.

Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall is anxious to learn why Michaels sold 15,042 shares of McKesson & Robbins common stock for $118,530 a few weeks before Coster was unveiled.

Dewey gave an insight into the setup of the "Coster" dynasty by revealing that the theft of nearly $4,000,000 was made possible by a complicated array of five fictitious companies. The $4,000,000 was paid in commissions on fake transactions in crude drugs. The total amount involved in these transactions was $16,250,000 which, Dewey charged, actually was paid by McKesson & Robbins to the five "dummy" concerns.

The Musica connection with mutations was disclosed before McCall by Frederic Wingirsky, vice president in charge of the McKesson & Robbins legal department. He laid a copy of a 2,000,000 rifle contract, which involved $50,000,000 and, according to the witness, had been ordered drafted by "Coster," on the assistant attorney general's desk. It called for an initial shipment of 100,000 "absolutely new" Lee-Enfield rifles of 1917-18 manufacture, 30-calibre, 10py specifications (modified), each complete with bayonet and 1,000 rounds of ammunition of 1930-35 manufacture. They were to be dispatched to a "British port for a non-belligerent nation." Names of all contracting parties, however, were blank.

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Brian McMahon insisted he intends to "go all the way to the top" in his probing of the Musicas' financial manipulations. He branded "Coster" a bigger bootlegger than either Johnny Torrio or Al Capone and stated evidence indicated that repeal did not bring a halt to the former convict's operations.

20 On NYA Rolls Begin Repairing Old Blockhouse

Mansfield's oldest landmark — the historic blockhouse in South park, ravaged by fire several weeks ago, was being repaired today by National Youth Administration workers.

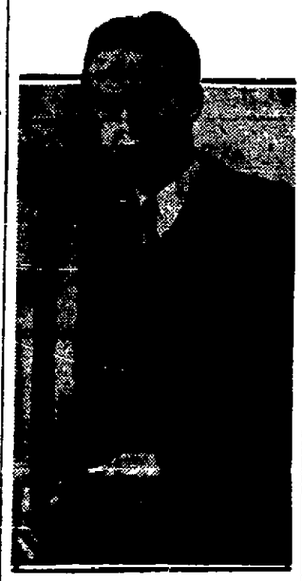
Twenty youths employed on a woodworking project at South park, under the supervision of Carl Heim, have scraped down the charred timbers and are now engaged in laying new flooring in the building, Service Director Earl A. Nist said.

When the flooring is completed, new windows will be installed and heavy shutters will be placed over the panes.

The work is expected to be completed early next month, making the building ready for occupancy by Boy Scout troop 6 which had held its meeting in the old structure up until the time of the fire.

The materials for the job were purchased by a $300 settlement made by the insurance companies which held policies on the building.

Shows Travelog



Travelog motion pictures made by Rev. Karl G. Sabiers, above, will be shown by Rev. Sabiers at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Church of the Foursquare Gospel, 168 South Adams street. Rev. Sabiers recently completed a trip around the world and made an extensive study of the world's principal religious beliefs, which are depicted in the picture.

SCHOOL BOARD RENTS BUILDINGS

Garage and Republican Office to Be Used as Classrooms for Simpson Pupils.

Hedges building where half-day schedules will be in effect.

Classes also will be on a half-day basis at the John Simpson building where nearly 600 pupils will be accommodated in the newer, fireproof section of the present building which will become a part of the new structure.

Workmen today were removing desks, blackboards, lighting fixtures and other equipment from the old John Simpson building, and razing of the structure is scheduled to start this week.

Most of the building will be demolished during the Christmas holidays so as to eliminate danger to pupils who will attend school there after classes are resumed Jan. 4.

The school board last night approved requests for bids on plumbing, heating and wiring for elementary buildings which will be remodeled under the $1,000,000 building program.

BALL ADDS $850 TO BASKET FUND

Acrobats and Jane Wilson Star as Floor Show Goes Over Before Crowd of 1,250.

little more than a year ago to join the Fred Waring company.

Ray and Trent, so far removed from the old-time acrobats that they cannot be placed in that class, and yet doing acrobatic stunts that no other team in the world has ever attempted, were given an ovation that almost lifted the arched roof of the big Coliseum.

They work in very smart business suits, combining comedy pantomime with almost unbelievable feats, doing them with an air of ease which makes the audience forget that a single slip may mean a broken neck. They were called back several times for additional feats.

Jane Wilson, who is 100 pounds of glamour and talent, stopped the show with her first number and the audience refused to let it go on until she came back and sang another. She appeared twice and for her second encore sang "Sibboney" which was her hit song of last year's Christmas show.

A gay and colorful melange of music and dancing made up the show. There was the Two Maids and a Man trio, Jane Weuthrick, Ruth Cox and Lawrence Chamberlain, making its first public appearance with two tuneful numbers; the Westinghouse glee club and the specialties put on by Bob Richard's Westinghouse orchestra —which gave one of the best programs of dance music Mansfield has heard in months.

Martha Metcalfe was given a big hand for her difficult toe tap dance and Mary Van Arnheim pleased with a song and clever tap.

The two choruses, the Hoganettes from the Marty Hogan dance studio, and the Speasettes from the Marguerite Speas studio, added a gay and colorful touch to the show. The Hoganettes, eight girls in attractive evening dreses, did a smart Lambeth Walk tap, and the Speasettes in stunning costumes of gold metallic cloth trimmed in aqua, did a tap. Miss Speas led her chorus of six.

The Hogan ensemble included Eleanor Hattman, Lucille Antrican, Louise Walker, June Ford, Mary Hyman, Norma Howell, Esther Pfaff and Miss Van Arnheim. The Speas chorus was made up of Vivian Walter, Jerry Brightbill, Martha Metcalfe, Betty Underwood, Dorothy Sloan and Jean Schill.

The finale brought all performers back to the floor, with the Speasettes as prancing reindeers with silver antlers, and Miss Speas as a "streamlined" Kris Kringle in red satin and white fur; the Hoganettes to do a fast tap to the merry notes of "Jingle Bells." An attractive feature was the appearance of a lovely little Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, wearing the masks and costumes of the Disney characters. Little Miss Jean Yeager was Snow White in pink and white satin, and dwarfs were played by William Frazz, Russell Ferrell, Bob Bovard, William Harper, William Shelly and two girls from the Hogan studio.

The show got under way when the American Legion drum corps, under the direction of Howard Newman, played a fan-fare. Legionnaires in uniform also were in charge of the reserved boxes last night.

Besides the people who worked in the show, and those who sold tickets for it, a number of citizens and companies contributed hours of volunteer service. J. M. Barnett, Westinghouse engineer, took over the big job of setting up the floor for the show, installing lights, setting up the stage, hanging curtains and working out mechanical problems.

Baird and Richards spent hours working out the plans for the show and the two dance studios spent two weeks training their choruses; city firemen at No. 1 station under Capt. Paul Young covered the traffic standards which were used to set up the boxes; The Honse Sign company and John Kuhlman of the Raemelton farm assisted in decorating; R. B. Gardner and John Hattery, jr., contributed Christmas trees, the George Lehr Awning company and the Home Materials company set up the attractive flower and candy booths; William Grassick gave his public address system; the Jones Piano House set up one of its new electrically controlled minipianos for the orchestra; Harry Delaney and Frank Forshee contributed flood lights.

The Shelley and the Painter confectionary companies donated candy.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Ott were co-chairmen of the ticket committee and Mrs. A. Jay Zahniser was chairman of the box reservations.

STUDIES POWER PLAN FOR CITY

Mayor Says Proposal Would Generate Electricity With Aid of Sewage Gas.

past 11 months could have been saved. Electricity used by the plant the last 11 months cost $8,100.

Turner's report contained figures showing the daily gas production which he explained showed some variations due to times when portions of the sewage as not fully treated resulting in a proportionate drop in gas.

"We believe we now have control of the worst of these conditions so we can reasonably expect higher gas production during the months that show lower levels," Turner said.

He pointed out that gas engine equipment for generating power is now being used in numerous cities and in most cases the investment has paid for itself in two years.

Among the cities now utilizing sewage gas successfully for power development, Turner said, were Springfield, Ill., Toledo, New York city, Janesville, Wis., Ann Arbor, Mich., Peoria, Ill., Topeka, Kans., Dunham, N. C., Richmond, Ind., LaCrosse, Wis., Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aurora, Ill., Kokomo, Ind., and Green Bay, Wis.

Turner suggested that a council committee be appointed to visit some of these plants to obtain price data.

$358,000 SPENT ON ENGINEERING PROJECTS IN '38

Improvements Totaled $106,000 More Than Previous Year, Report Shows.

City engineers during the past year spent one of the busiest 12 months ever recorded in the history of the engineering department, the annual report of City Engineer W. C. Statler filed today with Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist showed.

Aided by WPA funds, engineering projects during 1938 totaled $358,200, or $106,800 more than was spent the previous year.

Of this amount the city spent $184,700, which was $56,000 more than was expended in 1937, the report showed. Federal funds which went into Mansfield improvements totaled $173,500 as compared with $123,200 for the year previous, an increase of more than $50,000.

The largest increase was shown in sidewalk construction where $75,500 was expended as compared with $24,500 in 1937.

Sidewalk Work Tripled.

The report showed that 180,000 square feet of sidewalks were laid in the city this year as compared with 60,800 square feet in 1937. Besides the three miles of new walks laid, nearly four miles of sidewalks were repaired throughout the city.

The report also showed an increase of more than 400 per cent in the construction of sanitary sewers. This year $40,100 was spent for the construction of nearly 14,000 feet of new sanitary sewers as compared with $9,000 for this purpose in 1937.

Street paving, widening and curb and gutters construction and repairs totaled $90,000, of which the property owners and city paid $53,300 and WPA contributed $36,700.

Water main extensions throughout the city and a new 150,000 gallon storage tank and booster pumps at the Woodland reservoir totaled $138,000 or nearly double the amount spent last year.

Improvements in the city also included a new No. 2 fire station now under construction on North Main street.

Statler's report said that plans and estimates now complete and on file in the engineering offices called for the construction of storm sewers on 11 streets, sanitary sewers on five streets and resurfacing of five streets, besides plans for the landscaping of the city parks system.

Lists Recommendations.

An exhaustive list of recommendations, one which proposes a traffic survey to determine the feasibility of rerouting state and federal highways to relieve traffic congestion was incorporated in the report.

Statler's recommendation proposes no contemplated routes but merely states that the survey be conducted to determine the feasibility of such action.

Elimination of roof water from sanitary sewers and the rebuilding of bridges over Touby's run at West Sixth street and Bowman street, were the other two new recommendations. Numerous other proposals are repetition of those suggested in previous years.

In connection with water improvements, Statler advised the construction of additional mains and the annual inspection of all valves in the distribution system.

For the fourth consecutive year, included in the report was recommendations for a north-south highway in the western part of the city to connect Park avenue and Springmill street and involving the construction of a viaduct over railroad right-of-way where the proposed street would cross them.

Again included in the report were recommendations for a public parking ground in the business district to alleviate the increasing traffic congestion; the grading of all unimproved streets to the established grades; continuation of sidewalk repairs; the planning of additional main line sanitary sewers, and to provide for additional park areas and recreational centers.

WOMAN RETAINS PROSECUTOR JOB

Only Woman County Attorney in Nebraska Defends Her Sex in Public Office.

BLAIR, Neb.—(U.P.)—"A woman's place is wherever her interests lie," said Grace Ballard of Blair, re-elected Washington county attorney for her third term.

As for politics, she says it's ridiculous to bar women from public office merely on the basis of sex.

"There is not a county, district, state or national office, except perhaps that of policing, that women cannot fill as satisfactorily as men," she declared.

Nebraska's only woman county attorney looks back over a quarter century of association with men in the practice of law and declares she never has asked consideration because of her sex.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska law school in 1914, Miss Ballard started her public career by going to Pennsylvania, where she campaigned for the Pennsylvania State Women Suffrage association.

She spent another year in such work in New York. When the suffrage amendment became certain of adoption she returned to Blair to open a law office.

Miss Ballard always worked on the theory that there was an immediate place for women in politics. In 1918 she was elected Washington county attorney and served four years. She returned to private practice then held the same office again in 1934. This year she was without opposition in the primary and general election.

The Year in Review—

BUSINESS SLOWS UP AT HOME AND WAR FEAR SOARS

Jitterbugs, Jobless Census, Snow White, Hague War on Reds Made January News.

By VOLTA TORREY
AP Feature Service Writer

There was a dearth of prophecy when the iron tongue of midnight tolled 1938's arrival. Jitterbugs shouted "Bei Mir Bist du Schoen," but outside the night clubs, business stagnated. "Nice work if you can get it" was a popular phrase—

Chapter 1 of a Month-by-Month Review of 1938

Special Census-Taker John D. Biggers estimated 10,000,000 Americans were unemployed, and big businessmen went silently to Washington, in January, like small fry entering the woodshed with father.

Interior Secretary Ickes and Assistant Attorney General Jackson (who then was expected to run for governor of New York) had been booting business "bourbons." Men of means fought NLRB and fumed about "that man in the White House." But before the month ended there was truce talk. And Economist Leonard P. Ayers foresaw an upswing by summer.

"Another year, another war?" Europe thought. Unusually bright northern lights one January night made peasants think "Der Tag" had dawned. But Germany was jolted by the marriage of a carpenter's 28-year-old daughter to Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, 59. Spanish loyalists took Teruel, their first great victory for months. And Nippon nibbled on in China, but promised to be Uncle Sam's pal in '38.

Taking the Long View.

America prepared to build a bigger navy. "Our people believe," the president asserted, "that over the years democracies of the world will survive, and democracy will be restored or established in those nations which today know it not."

The house of representatives buried the Ludlow war referendum plan, 209 to 188. The senate became entangled in an anti-lynching bill filibuster. The supreme court was kept in headlines by Associate Justice Sutherland's retirement, the appointment of Solicitor General Stanley Reed to succeed him, and Justice Cardozo's illness.

Jersey City's Mayor Hague spurned a senate seat to continue his war on "reds." Glenn Frank agreed to head the G. O. P. program committee. New York WPA actors presented ". . . one-third of a nation."

'Heigh, Ho, Heigh, Ho . . .'

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" delighted 'most everybody. Stay-at-homes tuned in on Toscanini or read "The Citadel," "The Arts," or "Northwest Passage." Idlers in corner drugstores discussed the 22-day fast of Dean Israel Harding Noe of Memphis, the Ely Culbertson divorce, Barbara Stanwyck's scrap with Frank Fay over an adopted son, and the capture of the kidnaper of Charles S. Ross of Chicago.

Seven died when Pan American Airway's Pilot Edwin C. Musick crashed near Pago Pago, American Samoa, and 10 died in an airliner's tailspin near Bozeman, Mont. But Il Duce's son, Bruno, led three tri-motored bombers on a good-will flight from Italy to South America.

Birth of a Baby.

A French cabinet crisis delayed the League of Nations council's 100th session. Anthony Eden still was figure-skating for Great Britain. Kurt Schuschnigg was deaf to Italy's efforts to lure Austria out of the league. Both democratic and fascist missionaries bustled through the Balkans—and Rumania's new poet-premier, Octavian Goga (who died only four months later), made the Jews squirm. The U S S. R.'s new parliament met, the U. S. got curiouser and curiouser about a Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson whom the Russians had in jail.

And Jan. 31 in Holland, a 51-gun salute announced the birth of Princess Juliana's baby, Beatrix Wilhelmina Armgrad, destined some day to rule 69,000,000 people.

Makes Come-Back.

Joan Crawford really comes back to the motion pictures in a big way and is probably destined to re-establish herself in the hearts of the fans with her performance in her current vehicle, "The Shining Hour," which closes tonight at the Ohio. Miss Crawford is starred as a famous New York cafe dancer who becomes the wife of a mid-western farm bureau agent. The role of her husband is played by Melvyn Douglas. "Dramatic School," with Paulette Goddard, opens Wednesday.

Football Farce.

Football as it isn't played in college, pro conflicts, or for that matter on prison exercise lots is the theme and subject of "Up the River." This movie, a mirthquake of fun, is showing now at the Madison. Starring Preston Foster, Tony Martin, the handsome singer, Phyllis Brooks, Slim Summerville, Arthur Treacher and Bill Robinson, it tells a hilarious tale of football behind prison walls.

Jungle Expose.

Armand Denis and his wife, both world famous explorers, filmed the picture, "Dark Rapture," which is credited with exposing much of the thrilling experiences and unusual rites witnessed by visitors in the Congo. Wild life and wild people are the subjects for the camera. "Double Wedding," starring William Powell, Myrna Loy, Florence Rice and John Beal, is the second feature showing at the Majestic. It tells the story of the marriage of two sisters.

Romantic Adventure.

"Dangerously Yours," starring Cesar Romero and Phyllis Brooks, is an exciting story of the efforts of the two principal characters to steal a famous diamond. Their experiences on a luxury liner on which an ill-assorted group of passengers are to be found are thrilling and romantic. Wallace Berry in "The Bad Man of Brimstone" is the second feature at the new Ritz.

One Day Only.

"Arson Racket Squad" and "Speed Limited" are the double bill pictures being shown Wednesday at the Park. Bob Livingston and Rosalind Keith are starred in this picture which deals with the tracing down of an arson gang by two officers of the arson squad following the death of the battalion chief of the New York fire department. The second feature stars Ralph Graves and Evelyn Brent.

GALION—Dorothy Riddle underwent an appendicitis operation Monday night at the Good Samaritan hospital.

junior at King college, Bristol, Tenn., was recently elected captain of the King football team for next year at the annual grid banquet. Henry, known as "Bullet" in the southlands, is a fullback. He is coached by Neal "Jack" Young, graduate of Galion high school in 1927.

EMPLOYES OF 2 STORES TO GET YULE BONUSES

60 Will Receive Checks at J. C. Penney Company; 15 to Share in Grant Awards.

Two Mansfield stores today announced payment of a Christmas bonus to employes. They were the J. C. Penney company and the W. T. Grant company, both of which operate nation-wide retail outlets.

R. A. Calene, manager of the J. C. Penney store, said that more than 60 regular and extra employes here will share in the distribution made by the firm in its 1,540 stores throughout the country.

Bonus checks will be presented by Calene at the annual Christmas party for employes which will be held at the store after closing hours Friday night.

Get 2 Weeks Pay.

All regular employes with more than one year service will receive checks equal to two weeks' salary, Calene said. Those with less than one year's service and all extra employes will be given lesser amounts.

In the announcement made by the Grant company, G. W. O'Connor, manager of the Mansfield store, said 15 regular employes here would be among the 14,000 employed in 500 cities to share in a bonus amounting to one week's pay for those with five years' service and proportionate amounts to those with lesser service.

Both Calene and O'Connor reported an upswing in business conditions during the past three months and said the outlook for the coming year was "bright."

4 SCHOOLS TIED

Attendance During November Drops, Report Shows.

Four schools were tied for first place in attendance in Mansfield last month, while the attendance percentage in all of the city's public schools dropped to 93.3 from 94.9 in October, reports to Supt. W. L. Miller showed today.

The Newman, Carpenter, Brinkerhoff and West Fifth Street schools topped the list in November with 95.9 per cent each. The Western Avenue school was second with 95.6 per cent attendance and the Woodland school was third with 95.1 per cent.

John Simpson junior high school where half-day sessions have been held for several weeks, topped the list in tardiness and truancy. That school had 161 cases of tardiness and 16 of truancy as against 124 and nine at Senior high school, second highest.

Defrauded, Movie Hero Hart Says In Suit To Get Fund

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— William S. Hart demanded back today the trust fund he set up 20 years ago for a woman who claimed she bore him a son.

The benefactor was Miss Elizabeth MacCaulley, a Boston schoolteacher, who fell in love with Hart when he was the hard-riding, two-gun hero of silent pictures.

Hart, now 68 and retired, filed suit in superior court charging that her story was proved false, that the "son" never existed, and asking for the money which now amounts to $12,000.

The scandal caused by Miss MacCaulley's charges was blamed in part for the decline of Hart's film career. She fell in love with him because of his pictures, and came to Hollywood in an effort to see him. Later she produced a child of whom she claimed the actor was father.

Hart said that on June 15, 1923, he discovered that he had been defrauded. He learned that Miss MacCaulley "falsely represented to the plaintiff that the beneficiary (the supposed son) in the trust was a person, when, in fact, said beneficiary was not."

Attorneys for Hart said they did not know Miss MacCaulley's whereabouts, explaining she had "dropped from sight" in the years since the scandal.

AWARDED $4,200

Jury Sets Amount of Easement After Week-Long Trial.

A jury in Richland county common pleas court today had awarded Mrs. Viola Boals $4,200 for a flood easement on 74 acres of her farm in Weller township following a trial which lasted an entire week.

Ten of the 12 jurors signed the judgment for $4,200 after deliberating more than two hours. Twenty-four witnesses testified, 14 for the defendant and 10 for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Boals was named defendant in the suit filed by the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district after she refused to accept the conservancy board's offer. Attorneys for the board declined to reveal the amount of the offer.

Attys. John C. O'Donnell, Mansfield, and Matthew Smith of New Philadelphia handled the case for the Conservancy board. Mrs. Boals was represented by Atty's Reed and Beach and Lewis Brucker, all of Mansfield.

That Road Improvement Contract.

NOW that W. W. Purdy, head of the Purdy Construction company, has decided against seeking court restraint in the matter of the award of a county road improvement contract to a higher bidder, it is proper that the circumstances entering into this action by the county commissioners be given consideration, so that any similar situation may be avoided in the future.

While Mr. Purdy's rejected bid was approximately $5,000 under the bid of the Mansfield Asphalt paving company, which was accepted, it was the contention of the board of county commissioners that they "preferred" limestone base rather than gravel. which was specified in the Purdy bid.

In the legal advertising for bids it was specified that construction must conform to Ohio state highway specifications, which mention limestone, gravel and slag as acceptable base materials.

The difference in the totals of the two bids was represented largely by the amounts specified for base material, although H. A. Kellar, state highway engineer in this district, is quoted as having said that the price of the two materials (limestone and gravel) "is practically the same," and that "no appreciable difference" has been noticed in the quality of these materials.

The decision of Mr. Purdy to withhold legal action in this matter is apparently influenced largely by the fact that consequent delay would jeopardize the allocation of $30,000 in PWA funds now available to the county for needed road improvements.

There should be no minimizing, however, of the importance of county commissioners—and other officials having authority to award contracts for public work—giving all prospective bidders opportunity to become fully informed as to requirements, so that it can be depended on that contracts will hereafter be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder conforming to requirements.

Public officials are charged with the responsibility of spending taxpayers' money and it is highly important that there should be no justification for suspicion of favoritism in awarding contracts to other than the lowest responsible bidders on material and work of equal quality.

Road to Prosperity.

WHEN Edsel Ford and other outstanding executives told a senate committee that lower taxes would go a long way toward promoting industrial recovery, emphasis was placed upon a point that commands nationwide attention.

Tax payments on the part of industry are drawn from funds that otherwise would be used for wages, increased employment, productive expansion and capital improvements of all kinds. To pour excessive sums into the government's coffers is to curb the very processes that work for industrial health.

As an incentive to business, no factor could possibly surpass reduced governmental spending, with its corollaries of tax cuts and balanced budgets.

And let no one hold the federal government alone responsible. States, counties and municipalities, too, can aid the upward trend of American industry by making economy and tax reduction more potent than mere vote-getting shibboleths.

Mrs. Hahn's Confession.

CONFESSION by Anna Hahn that she was a multiple murderess removes the last shred of doubt as to the guilt of the first woman to die in Ohio's electric chair.

Appeals for clemency in this case were based almost entirely on Mrs. Hahn being a woman, rather than on claims of innocence of the crimes charged.

Governor Davey's refusal to intervene serves to establish a needed precedent in this state that sex equality extends not only to privileges but also to responsibilities—and that equality of punishment must be anticipated by offenders, regardless of sex

Whatever contention remains in the matter of Mrs. Hahn's execution, revolting as the thought of it may have been, must rest on consideration of justification for the death penalty itself, rather than resort to it in this particular case.

"I do not believe in capital punishment," is the common expression of those who oppose the death penalty. "I do not believe in murder" would be an appropriate counter assertion.

The death penalty will have no place in the more advanced civilization toward which slow progress is being made—for there will then be none who will commit the atrocious crimes by which they forfeit the right to live.

Lighted Pedestrians.

THE attorney general of Ontario is searching the law for authority to require pedestrians to go about at night with electric lights attached to vest pocket batteries. It is a safety measure which, if adopted there, might soon spread to this side of the border.

It wouldn't be the first time in history that pedestrians carried lights. Lanterns used to be necessary not only because there was no street lighting, but also because there were no pavements, and the person afoot after dark had to watch out for holes, puddles and obstructions.

Today city streets are lighted, and pedestrians have sidewalks and marked and protected crosswalks. In the small towns and on the open highway there may be more need for walking on the street at night, and consequently need for carrying or wearing something to indicate one's presence to motorists.

But the vest pocket battery seems awkward. Colored reflectors, white capes or some other device may prove more practical.

Complaint is made that while Santa Claus is a liberal giver, he never signs the checks.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Our Christmas story for this year is how some applejack, a Negro servant, and an enterprising general named Washington gave this country one of its happiest yuletides.

Scarcely a man is now alive who hasn't seen the picture of Washington crossing the Delaware, his foot braced riskily against the gunwale of a shallow boat as he led his hungry, shivering forces in a surprise march to capture the hired German soldiers fighting England's colonial wars.

But we have seen mighty few who knew about the applejack and the servant. It was this way:

Washington and his colonial troops had suffered one defeat after another at the hands of the British, not such tin-head soldiers as some of our writers imply. In the battle of Long Island, the surrender of Fort Washington and other affrays, Washington and his generals had lost 4,430 men in 12 weeks and were backing away toward interior Pennslyvania as the winter of 1776 approached.

Congress Adjourns.

ON DEC. 8 Washington crossed the Delaware fleeing from the Redcoats and hired Hessians, who were so close that three hours after he reached the Pennsylvania side the troops in pursuit arrived at Trenton. They were headed for Philadelphia. Congress hastily adjourned to Baltimore. There was no filibuster about THAT adjournment.

Washington had seen to it that all boats on the Trenton side were either pulled to the Pennsylvania shore or destroyed. So the pursuing British and Hessians had to wait to cross on the ice. None had formed by Christmas, but great ice wedges were crunching down the river from up stream.

Washington badly needed a victory to bulster the wavering courage of the colonists. The forces opposing him were better armed, better fed and better treated by the Tory co[illegible]ts along the Atlantic, but [illegible]new his Christmases and the value of a surprise attack. He decided that the Hessians, who always observed Christmas in a big way, would be pretty high by Christmas night.

On the afternoon of Dec 25 he divided his forces into three wings, one to cross downstream to cut off British troops at Bordentown, another to cross just below Trenton. Washington led the main body upstream eight miles to make the crossing.

The Truth.

THE temperature had dropped suddenly and a blizzard blew up. One colonial regiment was entirely without shoes. It is no fiction that they left a red trail in the snow. Skilled New England fishermen put them across safely and quickly, in spite of the ice. Washington, early across, sat on the the bank giving orders "He was not what ladies would call a pretty man," said one trooper in his diary.

It was Christmas night as they moved out on the eight-mile march. In the dark a dog ran out from a farmyard, barking. A soldier bayoneted him to stop the alarm. A Tory Pennsylvania farmer spotted the column and hastened to Trenton to warn the Hessian commander, Colonel Rall. A Negro butler refused to let him in. That was an important moment in American history. The farmer wrote a note of warning, but Rall, busy celebrating, stuffed it into his pocket without reading it.

Christmas Gift.

THE German troopers and officers had discovered a new and interesting drink. It went down smoothly and kicked like a mule. Farmers called it applejack. The Germans celebrated on it richly, singing around the first Christmas trees seen in America.

When Washington's forces hit at daybreak, Rall was in his night clothes. It was a complete surprise, contrary to some grade school history books, the Hessians, in spite of their confusion, fought the fight of hard professional soldiers. But they were raked by grapeshot and musketry. Their artillery was shot to pieces as fast as they could set it up.

Washington lost two soldiers, the Hessians a hundred. Nine hundred surrendered, cut off a few at a time without leaders. It was a nice Christmas gift to the colonial cause.

"MAN OF THE MONTH!"

Pan-American 'Axis' Starts Well

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The alignment Secretary of State Hull has been organizing at the Pan-American gathering in Lima, Peru, probably would be referred to in Europe as an "axis." Like the Berlin-Rome axis, subsequently inclusive of Tokyo. Webster defines an axis as something upon which something else turns — something like a globe or a wheel, though the latter kind generally is described as an axle. A certain breed of deer also is called an axis. These recent international axes (if that's the correct plural) certainly are not deer. I suppose the theory is that various international policies turn on them. I don't think the analogy is a very close one.

Hull

But never mind. We know what an up-to-date diplomat means when he says "ax-is." He means an understanding between nations, without a formal treaty. Treaties are not much good anyway. They're broken too readily. Some axes seem to be unreliable likewise. For example, the Berlin-Rome axis worked all right when Hitler wanted to dismember Czechoslovakia. Mussolini turned his end of the whizzer faithfully enough on that occasion. Now, however, that Mussolini seeks to grab a lot of French territory, Hitler doesn't twist HIS end of the thing a bit energetically.

Ours Is Better.

I fancy that our Pan-American axis will operate a deal more perfectly. We Pan-Americans have, as a matter of fact, much in common. It will pay us to stick together.

To illustrate

We in the United States don't like foreign propaganda in our midst. The Dies quiz has demonstrated that. It's been a silly inquiry. Nevertheless it's been rather popular, for we have a 'bund" or two which we're slightly resentful of.

True, no sensible person takes these outfits seriously. Under our present immigration laws we have only a comparative handful of born Germans in the country. Most of the bunds' members are native-born sons or grandsons of real Germans. Plenty of our citizens of German ancestry are as anti-Hitler as the rest of us are.

But consider the case, say, of Brazil!

Down south, in the vicinity of Puerto Alegre, I've seen a community, running into the hundreds of thousands, where the language is German, the signs are German, German is the only tongue taught in the local schools, and you can't get waited on in a store unless you speak a little German. This population demands autonomy (virtual independence of the Brazilian government) as loudly as the German Sudetens ever did. Indeed, they've attempted revolution. Does this make the rank-and-file of Brazilians holler? Well, you can imagine it! Suppose, here in the U. S. A., we had a statewide uprising in favor of autonomy for a foreign nationality! That's what Brazil has experienced.

They're Influential.

The Germans are not so cohesive in the rest of Latin America as in Brazil. They haven't the same solid colonies elsewhere, but they're influential. The Italians are more diffused. They're as numerous but they mingle better with the Spaniards. I don't think the Japanese signify.

The nub of it is that we and Latin America are a genuine axis at last.

This last conference has been most gratifying. It looks like the actual article.

Hitherto the U. S. A. has been too obviously overpowering, Today we're in cahoots. In past years we were, to say the least, patronizing. Often we were bullying. President Wilson was one of the worst of all. Presidents Harding and Coolidge were well-meaning but ignorant. President Hoover's policy was o. k., but he hadn't a sufficiently pleasant smile.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have policy and affability, both.

Just after the Buenos Aires Pan-American conference, which was wonderfully successful, I asked Secretary Hull how he did it. He didn't know. But, after a chat with him, as an old South American resident, I did. The South Americans LIKED him personally.

Timely Editorial

Words To Obscure Thought.

Propaganda is defined by the secretary of the Institute for Propaganda Analysis, as "a device to make us form a judgment without examining the evidence on which it should be based." It is a fruitful line of thought that Professor Miller suggests.

Mussolini went into power on the slogan that he was saving Italy from Bolshevism, which he afterward laughed about to some of his friends. But it was useful politically, he admitted.

American history is full of such phrases which were effective for political purposes, but would not have stood up under examination. The reference to "the crime of '73" regarding the decision of the government to return the gold standard was one of these. The "heaven born ratio of 16 to 1" was another. The "pauper labor of Europe" has been used effectively to bolster excessive tariff duties. President Coolidge's phrase, "They hired the money, didn't they?" was a misleading simplification of a complex question.

Such expressions are often used as a substitute for thinking, which of course is hard work which we like to avoid if possible.—Kansas City Times.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Every Man for Himself."

Every man for himself is an old recourse—much older, in fact, than is generally appreciated by those who use it in life's many applicable situations.

The expression is an abbreviation of 'Every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost" —an allusion to an ancient Spanish legend concerning Satan and his subterranean school for the practice of unholy arts.

As superstition has it, at the conclusion of the course, each class, before it was graduated, had to run through a certain passage in Hell, with the devil himself in hot pursuit.

If Satan caught anyone at all, it would naturally be the hindmost, whom he would thereupon "take" for himself, school him to become expert in black magic, and possess his soul forever.

Listen, World!

"Better a Vacant Chair Than"— A Broken Trust.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THAT grand old man in the Vatican, battling so heroically to carry on, despite the handicap of age and desperate illness . . . no one, whatever his creed, can fail to honor him and give thanks for the inspiration of his magnificent courage.

Recently the agony struck again, left the old Pope helpless, life barely flickering. Surely, there could be no comeback from this! Huddled in the shadows of the great room, those who loved him watched his struggle . . . shrinking at the hiss of the oxygen tanks . . . weeping as the thread of breath faltered and failed in the frail husk of flesh, and the tissue-thin lids closed across the dimming eyes—

Blue lips . . . blue nails! Tall ships setting sail for far horizons, fly "Blue Peter" at the mast. Here, of a tragic certainty, was the "Blue Peter" signal of another, nobler voyager setting forth on a greater adventure — to the home he had served so long and so well.

Yes, this must be the end. But no! Even as they bowed to the inevitable, the eyelids quivered . . . the hands stirred . . . life swept across the drained and pallid flesh in a triumphant tide. A miracle! No — not a miracle. Merely — DUTY. THERE WAS WORK TO BE DONE . . . HIS WORK . . . AND HE MUST DO IT!

Alarmed, they begged, protested. Reminded him that the black threat still hovered . . . that he must not, dare not—Dare not? His eyes flashed with the old fire . . . his words leaped with the old power—"BETTER A VACANT CHAIR THAN A POPE WHO DARES NOT FULFILL THE FUNCTION OF A POPE!"

What a reply! His whole life's philosophy lay in that answer. As a young mountain climber, as a battling representative of God, he had always scorned mere safety. Not life—but what one did with life . . . not the quantity but the quality of existence . . . that was his spiritual creed. And now he had come to the supreme test of that creed.

Here he was, in the grip of death, hanging to life by a pulse beat. Yet, without a second's hesitation, he risked life for a point of honor! As certainly as a bird wheels to the wind . . . as surely as a star swings within its appointed orbit . . . so surely his soul swung to the pattern he had made.

Service—first . . . Security—second . . . or not at all.

"BETTER A VACANT CHAIR THAN" — A BROKEN TRUST! What a rebuke and challenge to a world turned craven . . . to this nation, particularly. We were so gloriously reckless once, hardly fifty years ago. So eager to try new trials, to accept the hazards of strange adventures. And now?

NOW WE WANT TO PLAY SAFE!

Now we clamor for "security" . . . whine against risk . . . grasp desperately at comfort, pleasure, youth. The quantity rather than the quality of life . . . that's the modern slogan of a people who once challenged tyranny, died for principle, conquered a wilderness.

"Better a vacant chair than"—a meaningless man! Pope Pius meant that, when he once again defied death. Socrates mean that when he laughingly drank the hemlock rather than bow to political expediency. Joan of Arc meant that when she walked to the burning stake, rather than forswear her "visions." Jesus Christ . . . and Abraham Lincoln . . . and many another . . . meant that when they chose a felon's cross, an assassin's bullet —rather than peace and popularity.

WHICH DO YOU CHOOSE WHEN YOU FACE THE DAILY CHALLENGE OF YOUR LIFE? Safety? Comfort? Self-indulgence? Or living "the hard way" but keeping the faith?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The O. Henry aspect of this tale doesn't become apparent until you think it over because it has no sharp-breaking stinger at the end, but it does show you how fate sometimes sifts people together, and it certainly has the ingredients. O. Henry made such capital use of during his fiction writing days.

I am speaking now of a cop and an ex-bootlegger who played hide-and-seek with one another all through prohibition and who finally met the other day over a friendly cut of pie.

They met at the home of a mutual friend, an illustrator, whose suburban place is about 25 miles from Manhattan just back from a great highway which is patrolled daily by state troopers. Frequently the cops stop by for a chat and incidentally for a helping of that apple pie which the cook always seems to have in bountiful plenty.

WHILE we gossiped—the cop, the artist, and myself—a car turned into the drive, and when the driver crawled out we recognized a man who has made a lot of money in real estate and also from a tavern which he owns just over the next hill. He is a pleasant, talkative duck, always in fine humor, always willing to gab. So we made room for him, and in due time our host said:

"Red"—that isn't his name but that's what we are going to call him—"Red, what about that booze you flew in from Canada?"

Red laughed happily. "There isn't much to tell," he said. "It was pretty foggy and as I circled the landing field a light flashed in a nearby farmhouse. That told me the cops were waiting; so I gave her the gun and went on to another field. We always had five or six emergency fields, and friendly farmers were always conveniently near."

The cop leaned forward: "You fascinate me, Red. How long ago was this?"

"It happened twice a week, for years."

"Did you ever fly a yellow plane that finally burned?"

"Sure," grinned Red.

THE cop took a deep breath. He grinned hugely. He reached over and shook Red by the hand.

"Damn you," he said, "I nearly caught my death of cold lying in corn fields waiting for you. I would freeze for hours . . . So those farmers tipped you off, eh?"

"Sure, why not? They're good guys. And that bottled-in-bond we'd slip 'em didn't hurt."

"But what I can't understand is that time you cracked up."

"I didn't crack—I pancaked."

"Okay, you pancaked—and two of my pals got there about ten minutes later. But there wasn't a drop of booze. What did you do with it?"

Now Red was laughing. His laughter was as gentle as the soft summer rain. "It was there, pal, in the hay. There was a farmer with a big wagon of hay. There was always a wagon of hay. You see, we wouldn't use a field unless it was next to a hay field. We had to work fast. The farmer was just driving off when your boys got there."

You see what I mean? The talk went on from there and it lasted for hours. It was a game they had once played and now they were putting all the pieces together. I was spellbound. I hardly dared move for fear they'd stop talking. I was so fascinated—why I even forgot to eat my pie.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Joyful Return.

I am at home once more, I touch
Each thing of mine with loving hands
And feel deep joy that nothing has
Been changed, all that love understands.

And most of anything is dear,
In coming home, to find my things
Just as I left them; this, indeed,
This is delight that comfort brings.

So grateful am I for a love
That leaves small treasures undisturbed
So that I can come home and come
To peace, heart-calm and unperturbed.

A Farmer's Diary

Speaking of Mules.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TWO of my near neighbors own spans of mules. I have watched them pull a plow through soft spring loam at a slow, even pace, tirelessly, all forenoon, their long ears swinging rhythmically back and forth with each labored step. But when mealtime came and the farm bell rang, one or the other, or sometimes both, would stop and bray. Then they would move rapidly to the corner nearest the barn, and earth nor heaven could budge them in the opposite direction.

The lowly mule has always elicited my sympathy. He is the cynic of the barnyard, born to mistrust mankind and his fellow creatures. He is a stranger to his sire, and a child his mother does not care to own—a hybrid, the cross between a jackass and a mare.

He is wary of the farmer's kindness and fatefully resentful when mistreated. Yet he is hardy and long-lived, combining equine size and strength with asinine longevity to such a degree that he becomes more useful at some tasks than any of his forebears. I never saw him eat too heavily even when hungry, nor drink too much when hot.

George Washington was an early fancier of mules, and brought a sire from Europe. They were used for much of the heavy work on his Mt. Vernon plantation.

When I was a boy, one of our neighbors claimed his trusty mule was seventy-five. It roamed the free mountain range each spring and fall, with a bell upon its neck. I saw it hitched, one day, to a heavy wagon. When it grew tired, it laid down in the road to rest. In a little while it got up and went on, in no way entangled in the harness.

At the county fair, a span of mules competed with three teams of horses in a pulling contest. A horse team won, but the muleteer protested, "It wasn't fair! There were ladies right along the sidelines! I didn't dass t' talk so the damn mules could understan' me!"

WEIGH PLAN TO END ARGENTINA, U. S. DEADLOCK

Pan-American Envoys Study Compromise Proposals on Solidarity Program.

(By United Press)

LIMA, Peru — A compromise proposal on a declaration of continental solidarity, designed to end a deadlock between United States and Argentina delegations, was circulated today among delegates to the eighth Pan-American conference.

The compromise, drawn up by Carlos Concha and Afranio de Mello Franco, chief delegates of Peru and Brazil, would bind the 21 Pan-American republics to present a united front against aggression by either an American or a non-American nation. Not only armed aggression but any other activity, such as political penetration would call for united action.

Victory for Argentina.

There were indications that the compromise draft might be further revised after conferences among chief delegates. As it stands, the compromise represents a victory for Argentina in that it includes aggression by an American nation against another American nation. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief of the United States delegation, had held out for a plain statement that the American republics would stand united against aggression by a non-American nation.

The United States won a minor victory in that the compromise strengthens machinery for consultation among the foreign ministers of the republics.

The important portions of the compromise draft is as follows:

"The governments of the American states declare:

"1. That they reaffirm their continental solidarity and their purpose of collaborating for the universal re-establishment of the principles upon which the condition of solidarity is based.

"2. That they will amplify the process of consultations provided for in conventions signed at Buenos Aires, Dec. 21, 1936, in order that they may resist in defense of their sovereignty and the interests of American states any threat or act of force, directly or indirectly on the part of any non-American state against an American state.

"3. That in accordance with the principles of continental solidarity they will present a united front against any American state which violated this principle or menaces. . . .

"4. That in event that the peace of any American state is menaced from without or within the continent by the direct or indirect interference of another state, or by unofficial acts or activities which have support from another state, although they may not have the appearance of force, and which may change or subvert the national or political institutions of the threatened state, consultation shall always be initiated exclusively by the government of the threatened state

"5. That in cases such as those specified in paragraphs two and three consultation may be initiated by any American state.

Free-for-All Fight in Shack Results in Arrest of Six.

Six men were in jail today, two serving 30-day sentences on charges of assault and battery and the other four "sitting out" $5 fines for intoxication as the result of a free-for-all at a North Adams street shack Sunday night.

The two serving the assault and battery sentences are Richard Waldo, Boston, Mass., and Neal Duffey, New Castle, Pa. Both were convicted yesterday in municipal court.

Those who pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication were Harry O'Donnell, Toledo; Bert Lomaster, Charles Dempsey, and Albert Sikorsiki, all of whom gave their address as Mansfield.

Police rounded up the sextet at a shack at the rear of 206 North Adams street, at 11 p. m. Sunday after Orra Wilson, 21 Flint street, and John Crane, 47 West First street, complained that they had been beaten up during an altercation there.

The assault and battery charges were preferred by Wilson who signed the affidavit.

LET CONTRACTS

Commissioners Award Power Shovel Work to Two.

County commissioners today had awarded contracts to two Mansfield firms for furnishing power shovels on two ditch projects in the county. The contracts involve expenditure of approximately $1,000. They were let on low bids.

G. L. Rogers received a contract for shovel work on the Possum Run ditch in Washington and Jefferson townships on his bid of $2.80 per hour for an estimated 250 hours.

Roger J. Au was the successful bidder on the Dininger ditch project in Cass township. His bid was $4.40 per hour for 80 hours.

The ditch improvements are a part of a $131,000 county-wide WPA project. Work is scheduled to start on the Dininger ditch by Dec. 27 and the Possum Run ditch by Jan. 10.

Contractor Hopes to Complete Building in About a Year.

Excavation work had been started today for a $30,000 unit of an apartment building to be erected at West First Street and Blymyer avenue by Rex. A. Zediker, Mansfield contractor.

The building, which will be in three units, will involve an expenditure of nearly $100,000 and when complete will be one of the largest in the city.

Zediker, who will be in charge of the construction work, said he hoped to complete the building in slightly more than a year.

DEFENDS LINDY FOR ACCEPTING HONOR DECORATION FROM NAZIS

(By International News Service)

PARIS — Criticism of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for his acceptance of a Nazi medal of honor today brought from a close associate of the famous flyer a spirited defense of his "100 per cent Americanism."

The criticism was voiced a few days ago in the United States by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who in a speech took issue with Lindbergh and Henry Ford for accepting decorations from Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

The defense offered was that Colonel Lindbergh was completely surprised when at conclusion of an official banquet in Berlin Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering presented him with the medal.

"Slim was sittling quietly, listening to the speeches, when Goering suddenly turned and presented him with a small red box," Colonel Lindbergh's associate said.

"Upon opening it, Slim discovered the box contained a decoration from Hitler.

"Taken entirely by surprise, he smiled sheepishly, made a brief speech of acceptance and then sat dow. He couldn't very well refuse the award even though he realized its inevitable repercussions.

"It is ridiculous to say that acceptance of the medal in any way signifies Nazi sympathies on his part. He is very much a patriotic American and always will be."

Colonel and Ms. Lindbergh plan to move soon from their isolated home on the Brittany coast to a Paris apartment. All mail is being held for them here and a nurse has already been engaged for their sons. Arrangements have been made for official protection, but the address of their new home is a closely guarded secret.

In the course of the foregoing interview, Colonel Lindbergh's associate took occasion to reply to the statement issued by a group of leading Soviet aviators bitterly criticizing the flier for his alleged belittling of Russian air prowess.

"The colonel merely gave his personal opinion of the Russian air force," he said. "He had no intention of precipitating an international controversy."

Death Toll Rises As Worst Winter Grips Old World

LONDON —(AP)— Winter rolled up a heavy toll of lives in many European countries today.

A ferry boat creeping through the icy Tagus river at Lisbon struck a dredge and sank, with 25 of the 70 ferry passengers believed drowned.

More than 20 deaths were attributed to the cold, 23 degrees above zero in England. A violent northwest wind foiled relief for three keepers at Fastnet Rock lighthouse, off the coast of county Cork, Ireland.

Paris and suburbs counted nine dead. Hundreds of barges were caught in frozen northern French canals. Railroad signals froze in Scandinavia, delaying continental expresses. Norway had the lowest temperature yesterday, 25 below zero; Sweden was second with 20 below.

In Hungary the cold snapped a rail and derailed a train, injuring six passengers. Several ships in the Black Sea radioed distress signals, and at least three sailors were believed lost.

In Belgium 15 deaths were attributed to the intense cold. The mercury fell to five degrees above zero Fahrenheit, lowest in 50 years.

Autoist Withdraws One Affidavit, Swears Out Lesser One.

Charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, filed against Richard Sturges, 19, Overlook road, following an automobile accident, were withdrawn today.

The charge was filed by Joseph Lang, jr., 210 Grace street, whose car was involved in an accident with Sturges' car Sunday night. In withdrawing it, Lang said he lacked evidence to support such a charge, court records showed. He then signed an affidavit charging Sturges with careless and reckless driving.

Hearing is scheduled for Dec. 27. After the accident, on the Ashland hill, Sturges called the highway patrol himself.

POSTOFFICE HEADS FOR RECORD, CANCELS 98,000 CARDS IN DAY

A new Christmas season mailing record for the Mansfield postoffice this year was indicated yesterday when 98,000 greeting cards and letters were cancelled in one day.

Yesterday's cancellations were not the largest for one day during a holiday season, but they were the largest the posoffice has ever had a week, before Christmas, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger, said.

A large increase in the number of outgoing and incoming parcels and greeting cards has already been shown over last year's business. People this year are mailing the cards and parcels much earlier than they have in past years, he said.

Stamp sales are also head of the 1937 record. Yesterday the postoffice sold over 60,000 one and a half cent stamps, and 30,000 three cent stamps. Last week over 100,000 of the cent and a half stamps and about 60,000 three cent stamps were sold.

The use of air mail for Christmas mailing has also shown an increase in Mansfield this year. A large number of cards were sent air mail yesterday to Central and South America and to the Hawaiian Islands.

Each evening this week through Friday, the stamp and parcel post windows will remain open until 7 p. m. Saturday the windows will close at 6 p. m. These windows are open each day at 7 a. m.

COMMONS TELLS CHAMBERLAIN TO 'GO AHEAD'

Premier's Appeasement Plans Given 340 to 143 Vote of Endorsement.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—A green light, signaling him to "go ahead," shone on Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's horizon today after the house of commons gave his drive for European appeasement an overwhelming 340 to 143 vote of endorsement.

The vote, which rejected a Laborite motion censuring the prime minister, was taken at the end of a tempestuous debate during which Laborite members of parliament flashed red lights of criticism at Chamberlain, even charging that he was not telling the truth.

Chamberlain was forced to defend his foreign policy from every angle against the taunts of his opponents, and even declared:

"I am still awaiting a sign from those who speak for the German people that they share this desire (for peace) and are prepared to make a contribution to peace which would help them as much as it would help us."

Pact Means of Peace.

Closing the debate for the government, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, declared the four-power Munich pact remains an instrument of peace. He said Chamberlain persisted in trying to preserve peace when everyone else became resigned in despair to war.

"The general verdict of the world, the American verdict, for example," said Sir John, "is that Chamberlain saved the world at Munich."

He stated that in transferring the Sudetenland to Germany, "we were correcting one of the mistakes of the peace treaties."

The vote of confidence gave Chamberlain what amounted to a parliamentary "blank check" to carry to Rome next month for his talks with Premier Mussolini. He promised, however, that he would offer il duce no British territory and said he does not expect to come home with a new Anglo-Italian agreement.

Chamberlain made it clear he proposes to stick to his appeasement policy—and at the same time to continue Britain's rearmament drive until permanent appeasement is achieved.

"The usual defense policy," he declared, "is the only alternative to war."

During the cross-examination, Chamberlain was told by a Laborite at one point to "tell the truth about it." At another, he personally shouted at the Laborites: "Why don't you exercise self-control?" when he finally sat down, David Lloyd George, war-time prime minister, declared:

"The dictators are treating the premiers of England and France with contempt...it is frankly felt here that he (Chamberlain) is no match for these astute, crafty, ruthless and unscrupulous dictators."

Christmas Decorations at Cochran Store Attracts Crowds.

Nearly 700 children, including a group from the Friendly House and pupils from the Bushnell and Carpenter schools, saw the Christmas tree and decorations today at the Cochran Paint store, 12 East Third street, proprietors of the store said.

About 65 children, boys and girls from the county children's home, will see the display tomorrow, with the store providing free transportation for them. More than 5,000 persons have viewed the huge tree and decorations since last Thursday.

The store's 10-day business holiday during which no sales will be made and its novel greeting have received mention in newspapers throughout the middle west and in radio news reports.

Pupils' 15-Foot Petition Fails To Win Extra Holiday

A petition 15 feet long and bearing 670 names, presented to the Mansfield board of education last night, failed to win an extra holiday at Christmas for pupils at Senior high school.

The request was turned down on a technicality, board members explained, but they were careful not to allow the petitioning pupils time to correct the error.

Board members ruled the petition illegal because it did not contain the street address of each signer. They instructed Supt. W. L. Miller to return it with the explanation—but not until Wednesday so there won't be time to add the addresses. Schools close Wednesday afternoon for the Christmas holidays.

Miller admitted that the vacation period had been shortened one day this year and that the pupils might have some reason to complain.

"The state department of education, however, requires 180 days of school and our schedule was set up on that basis," Miller said. An additional holiday now would have to be made up later, he pointed out.

"We consider 13 days inadequate for the proper celebration of Yuletide festivities," the petition said. Its signers represented about half of the enrollment at the high school.

LAST SIGNS GO

400 Street Markers Shipped to Factory for Refinishing.

The last shipment of Mansfield's faded street signs, 40 of them, today were sent back to the factory for re-enameling.

D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of streets, said the markers were from the section of the city east of Main street. Over 900 of the signs from other sections of Mansfield already have been re-enameled without cost to the city.

The signs, purchased from the Llye Signs, Inc., Minneapolis, three years ago are being refinished under a five-year guarantee. The only cost to the city is freight charges.

Orewiler said he expected the final shipment back from the factory within 30 days.

Mothersingers, Simpson Choir Carol Tonight

Tonight's broadcast of Christmas carols through Mansfield's downtown section will be provided by the John Simpson Junior high school choir and the Hedges School Mothersingers who will sing from the Baku Grotto hall from 7 to 8 p. m.

The hours of Christmas music, furnished last night by choirs from Senior high school and the First Christian church, received favorable comment from shoppers who heard it from loudspeakers in scattered sections of the business district.

Choirs from St. John's Evangelical church and the Grace Gospel tabernacle will sing on Wednesday night's program.

Sponsored by the Mansfield Public Parks association and the Retail Merchants' association, the programs will continue nightly through Friday at 7 p. m.

CRASH FATAL TO 4 ARMY FLIERS

Texas Witnesses Say Plane Exploded, Burst into Fire and Then Plunged.

(By United Press)

BOERNE, Tex.—Four members of the United States army service were killed last night when a coast guard plane exploded over this town and crashed.

The victims were Lieut. F. S. Lyons, of the coast guard, pilot of the ship and unit commander; Ensign C. H. Peague of the U. S. navy; Rupert H. Germaine of the coast guard, and George C. Latham, enlisted man in the army, from Fort Bliss. Lyons, Peague and Germaine all were stationed at El Paso.

Investigators were unable to give an explanation immediately for the accident.

The plane, from the El Paso coast guard base, crashed only 30 miles short of Kelly field, San Antonio, its destination.

Townspeople said that the plane exploded as it passed over them, burst into flames and crashed in a pasture at the city limits.

"I saw the plane zoom over town, then heard the noise as it crashed just about a block from my home," said Justice of the Peace H. L. Davis. "There was an explosion. Apparently the pilot knew something was wrong and was trying to land before the explosion occurred."

A parachute was fastened to Lyon's body. Some were thrown clear of the wreckage. One was charred and others were burning.

MEN OF FIFTY TAKE IT EASY

By John C. Davis, Druggist

Youth and optimism last through four or five decades. It is simple to burn the candle at both ends when one is bursting with energy and is full of vigorous drive.

At fifty, take a word of warning. Slow down a little. Regulate your life to more leisure. You are not old, but you are not young either. Life will be longer, sweeter, more productive, if you take it easy now.

Have a regular consulation with your doctor. Let him check heart and kidneys, blood pressure, arteries. Follow his advice to the letter.

If medication is required, take the prescription to a druggist as carefully selected as you picked the doctor. They work together for your health.

—Advice—

Young Bride Asks Advice On Marriage

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been reading your column for years, and following your advice to other girls, I won my husband. We are both very young—he 21 and I'm 18. Now, please tell me how to keep him happy so he will remain constant to me. My rule is never to use a cross word where you can use a kind one.

YOUNG BRIDE.

Heartiest congratulations: I am so glad to have helped in bringing about such a happy union, and I believe your own intention to be sweet and gentle will go farther than anything toward making a success of your marriage.

Another important thing is to see that your home looks attractive and that you learn to cook appetizing dishes. You probably realize these things. I can send the names of some good books on cooking for two, if you will send me a three-cent, stamped self-addressed envelope.

A further matter affecting both your husband's happiness and your own is that you must not, in your love for him, encourage him to grow selfish and thoughtless of you. I hope you will continue to be kind to each other and have all the good times possible while you are both young.

Recipes For Coming Holidays

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Here are some recipes with a holiday tang about them that should be well to the fore whenever a festive meal is in order.

If it is luncheon on the day after turkey was served, you can make a really grand dish of left-over turkey. For each portion make two pancakes. Place between them a layer of finely-chopped turkey that has been mixed with savory salt, pepper and soft-buttered crumbs with sufficient cream to hold it together. Roll up the pancakes and brush with melted butter. Spread with grated Parmesan cheese and garnish plentifully with paprika. Bake in hot oven until nicely browned. Serve with creamed new peas and mashed potatoes.

If the children are having a holiday party, treat them to a dessert that looks like a plum pudding but isn't. Soak two cups stale bread crumbs (grated) in four cups scalded milk until soft. Melt a square of unsweetened chocolate in a small pan over hot water or in a double boiler. Pour over the chocolate enough of the hot milk strained from the soaked bread to thin the chocolate until it pours easily. Then add hot chocolate to the warm bread and milk, and also add two-thirds cup light corn syrup, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon almond extract. Then add two slightly-beaten eggs, one cup finely-chopped dates and one cup finely-chopped nutmeats. Stir briskly and lightly and turn into greased baking dish or mold. Bake for one hour. Turn the mold out on a lace paper doily and put a sprig of holly on top. Serve with whipped cream.

New Year's Idea.

One of our readers has her birthday anniversary on New Year's day. Usually she has an afternoon party but this year she is having a family dinner. She has asked this department to think up a decoration that wont' be expensive but that will be emblematic of the holiday season and its bounteous fare. We thought that a coach and three, a troika, as it were, would be nice. So we are telling her to make the coach out of a medium-sized pumpkin, cutting one side low, and the back high. The inside should be removed. Heap the pumpkin coach with oranges, apples, pears and grapes. Rest "chariot" on four "orange wheels," and with ribbon reins harness three "orange turkeys" to it. To make the turkeys, cut fan-shaped tails and side wings from black or brown cardboard or stiff wrapping paper. Fasten to an orange with pins. Make turkey head and beak out of two pieces of date, fastened on a toothpick, stuck into the body. Three tooth-pick legs support the juicy bird.

To keep the whites of eggs from falling after they have been whipped try adding, while whipping, a pinch of cream of tartar. This is usually most effective.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I read the letter again carefully, and then debated for several minutes upon the action, if any, I should take upon it, and also whether or not I should tell Mary and Noel of it. With a full realization of what involvement might be mine, I finally decided to keep all knowledge of the letter to myself. I would stick to my original program to give Mary and Noel a two or three-day interlude of happy reunion, and someway, somehow, I would stage a journey back from that mythical South Jersey household which would fool even Philip Veritzen.

But despite my belief that we were safe, I found myself shaking like the traditional leaf when the telephone on the table beside me suddenly shrilled an insistent message. Miss Whitlock, of course.

But it was not Miss Whitlock's voice which came to me over the telephone. It was a voice I knew better than any other in the world, and oh! so welcome! It was the voice of my husband, who was in the secret of our location and of our assumed names.

"Is this Mrs.———?" he asked, giving me the pseudonym under which I was registered.

"Yes," I answered demurely. "I am she."

"This is Charles Cholmondely-Wells speaking." He gave the name its extraordinary British pronounciation. "You, no doubt, have heard your husband speak of me."

"Oh! yes," I intoned faintly, trying to keep laughter at his foolery out of my voice.

"I have just heard from him that you are in town," he went on smoothly, still using the Oxford accent. "He has commissioned me to call upon you and see if I can be of any possible service to you. What time today would best suit your convenience?"

Necessity made my wits move swiftly.

"I am going out later in the day," I told him, "but, of course, I want to see you very much. Would it inconvenience you to come over this forenoon?"

Come In Half Hour.

"Indeed, no. My time is yours. I am about 15 minutes from the hotel, and I can be there in a quarter hour, a half, a whole or any time you prefer."

"If you can come a half hour from now, that will suit me perfectly," I said. "Good-day."

"Good-day," he answered, and I hung up the telephone with a warm little glow enveloping me. I had not hoped that Dicky, busy as he was, and with the mysterious menace hanging over him, would have the opportunity to come to us, and I found a double dose of relief in the assurance. Dicky was the one person in the world who could help me out of my dilemma, and, more than that, the mysterious pressure upon him must have eased somewhat, or he would not have been able to come to me, nor would he be in such good spirits as he had evinced over the telephone.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Dec. 21.

Surprising culminations to frustrating and perplexing conditions are promised by the prevailing planetary testimonies. There may be a harrowing situation, a bereavement or a grave anxiety coming to a head, but with fortitude, patience, application and acumen, there are excellent prospects for the realization of long-awaited benefits or material accumulations. Some change or instability is indicated, although good friends are at hand with wise counsel and support. But be alert to subtleties and schemes.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared to enjoy the realization of long-hoped-for climaxes to events that have been held up by stubborn obstacles and impediments. However, this advantage and progress may be incident to a bereavement or other sorrowful circumstance. This may bring financial security or the friendly cooperation of friendly interests, but in all matters of importance be wary as to deception, intrigue or underhanded transactions.

A child born on this day may have rather peculiar or mysterious trends of thought, with originality and independence, although not wanting in humane and social ideals and impulses.

Christmas Can Play Havoc

By MME. QUI VIVE

Santa Claus will be here pretty soon. Christmas trees will be lighted. Postmen and delivery boys will be chucking bundles in the door. Old Mister Turkey will get a stuffing. The plum pudding will be ready. On the big day children will be shouting, the living room will be showered with tissue paper and ribbons. And how will mama feel? She will be a grand old ruin. How will she look? Like the rock of ages after a hard winter.

The Yule tide is tough on the lady boss of the home.

Take it easy, woman, take it easy. A few weeks of turmoil will set you back in your fight against old Pop Time. Confusion is wearing and there's plenty of it in the home just now. Calm down. Or it won't be a merry Christmas for you.

* * *

No matter how late it is, no matter how many tasks you have ahead of you, next day give yourself a half hour of beauty relaxation before you go to bed.

The human constitution can stand so much and no more.

Fill the tub with warm water. But before you step in, give your complexion a light cleansing with cold cream; let the cream remain on. Lie in the warm water and rest. Close your eyes. Relax every muscle down to the fibers of your little pink toes. If you feel as most women do this week of the year you will heave several big sighs and pray for strength to get through with it. And don't forget that New Year's eve is coming.

Slather the bath brush with soap, scour yourself vogorously. Not alone for the sake of cleanliness but to get sluggish blood streams awake and to force the skin to throw off the poisons of fatigue that you have collected during the hectic day. Turn on the tepid shower, chill gradually.

Give yourself a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel, use a bath tonic. Makes you smell sweet. You feel luxurious and rested.

Tiptap your face and neck with a massage cream. Brush you hair, put it to bed in a wave net. Put cuticle cream on your finger nails. Use a hand lotion. Find your mystery story, enjoy a half hour of reading. This will prepare you to take up arms for the holiday fight next morning.

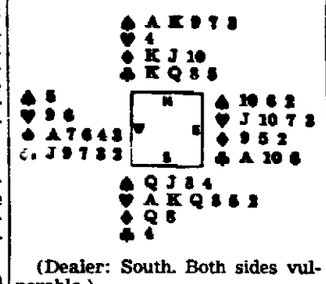
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

IMPORTANT TO KNOW

Every serious bridge player should familiarize himself with the "Blackwood Convention" devised by Easley Blackwood, of Cincinnatti, to aid in slam bidding, which has been gaining widespread popularity. Even those who dislike artificial conventions ought to know what their opponents' bids mean. Both for those who expect to encounter it, and for those who wish to use the simplest efficient devise for locating their partners' aces and kings, a presentation of its modus operandi can be valuable.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Reduced to its simplest terms, the Blackwood convention is merely this: A bid of 4-No Trump, after a satisfactory fit has been shown or implied, asks the partner how many aces he holds. A response of 5-Clubs shows no aces; 5-Diamonds, 1 ace; 5 Hearts, 2; 5-Spades, 3; 5-No Trump, all four. After response about aces, a bid of 5-No Trump by the original questioner asks about the number of kings held. To this a response of 6-Clubs shows no kings; 6-Diamonds, 1 king; 6-Hearts, 2; 6-Spades, 3; 6-No Trump, all four. The questioner then chooses the final contract.

Perhaps the most valuable feature of such a convention is its prevention of unmakeable slam contracts. On the deal given above, South bid 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 3-Spades, then North the Blackwood 4-No Trump South answered, with 5-Diamonds, that he had only one ace. North, knowing that the opponents held two aces, signed off at 5-Spades.

Players using no special slam convention might easily have bid to six on this deal and taken a set when the opponents cashed their two aces.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

How would you advise bidding this hand?

Roosevelt Drafts Five Messages For New Congress

PREDICT BUSY PROGRAM FOR SESSION JAN. 3

Administration Aids Assert Four More Messages to Be Drawn Up Soon.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt has mapped a busy schedule for the new congress that convenes Jan. 3.

So far, the executive has planned five messages to the congress, either specifically recommending legislation or suggesting for study proposals that if carried through would mean new laws.

First of all will be his opening message to congress, to be delivered during the first two or three days of the session. That alone will contain recommendations for congressional action in several fields.

In addition, White House aids and callers have either formally announced or indicated that there will be four more special messages, as follows:

1—A message transmitting the report of the joint management-labor committee appointed to draft a rehabilitation program of legislation for the railways, and recommending action of some sort by the congress.

Plans Defense Message.

2—A special national defense message, setting forth the needs of the military establishment and recommending appropriations to meet them.

3—A message transmitting the report of the special advisory committee which has studied social security laws, and recommending comprehensive expansion of their coverage and a strengthening of the general provisions of the law.

4—A message transmitting the report of the inter-departmental committee to study health and welfare needs, and recommending a national program for improvement of the nation's health. Miss Josephine Roche, former assistant secretary of the treasury, who heads this committee, indicated that this would propose an appropriation of at least $50,000,000 to handle this problem.

Foreign Policy First.

Presumably the vital national issues, such as foreign policy, and pressing domestic issues, will be dealt with in the opening message to the congress. Presidential aids felt that the executive would give more than ordinary attention to his foreign policy expressions, in view of the situation in Europe and the work now being carried forward by the American delegation to the Pan-American conference in Lima, Peru.

Besides all these questions the annual budget message must be submitted within the first several days of the new congress.

Furthering his efforts to prepare for submission of all these reports and recommendations to congress during January, the president expects to keep his White House engagements down to a minimum between now and the first of the year.

Up and Down THE STREET

City hall employes were somewhat agog a few days ago when Miss Esther Snyder, telephone operator, received a call that one of the swans at North Lake park was seen heading out the railroad tracks west of the park. Attempts to locate Jake Rahm, superintendent of parks, failed, and men employes at the building were considering organizing a posse when another call came in that the bird had been captured near West Fourth street road and had been brought back to the pond.

A new punishment devised by a Mansfield father for his son who had been using the family automobile without permission apparently worked yesterday at the county jail. Bringing the unsuspecting youth to the jail, the father asked Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman to tell him what usually happens to persons who drive automobiles without the owner's consent. The youth listened in amazement as the deputy lectured him. He didn't know that his father had heard he was using the car on the sly or why he had been brought to the jail.

There are only three days of school this week before the annual Christmas vacation, but Senior high school has a Christmas tree. The tree is located in the front lobby and was purchased and decorated by the Social Science Service club as its annual contribution to the Yuletide spirit at the school. After classes are dismissed for the holidays, the tree and decorations will be turned over to Friendly House.

Believe it or not, but a former Mansfield man appeared in the first "Believe It Or Not" cartoon drawn by Bob Ripley. This was disclosed yesterday when a reproduction of the first drawing of the series was printed in the many papers carrying the feature on the 20th anniversary. The former Mansfielder was Ed Lamy, whom sports followers will remember as a baseball player. Lamy, one of the greatest ice skaters of his day, was featured by Ripley for his feat of jumping 25 feet, 7 inches on ice at Saranac Lake, N. Y., where he is now employed as a skating instructor.

CAREER CLOSES

McCray, Ex-Indiana Governor, Dies of Heart Attack.

KENTLAND, Ind.—(INS)— The long and spectacular career of Warren T. McCray, former governor of Indiana, was closed today by death. The 73-year-old man succumbed to a heart attack last night on his 2,640-acre farm at Orchard Lake near here.

He had lived there in virtual retirement since his release from Federal prison after serving three years on a mail fraud charge imposed while he was the state's chief executive in 1924.

Elected governor on the Republican ticket in 1920, he suffered severe reverses in the farm price crash of 1923 and tried to recoup by borrowing.

He was later charged with embezzlement of $155,000 from the state's agricultural board and although the sum was repaid by friends, he was brought to trial. A local jury disagreed on his guilt, but he was indicted by the Federal government for misrepresentation of his affairs when he sought loans from various banks by mail.

Governor Refuses Clemency to Cleveland Bank Robber; Dies Tomorrow Night.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Governor Martin L. Davey today denied executive clemency to Stephen Figuli, 21-year-old Cleveland bank robber who is to die in the electric chair of Ohio penitentiary Wednesday night for the murder of Detective Robert R. Cline of Columbus in a gun battle here Feb. 4.

The governor's decision came last night after a hearing before the state parole board and Dan S. Earhart, the governor's executive secretary.

"There is nothing in the record to warrant intervention," the governor said.

Warden James C. Woodard, who told Figuli his fate, said the youth replied: "We all have to go some time. It don't make any difference."

The shooting occurred when Detective Gline and three fellow officers went to the rented, one-room hideout to which Figuli and three companions went after robbing the Hilltop branch of the Ohio National bank the morning of the day of the gun battle.

The bandits opened fire, killing Detective Cline. Detective Robert Cooke shot to death two of the bandits. A third, Carl Boettcher, engaged in a running gun battle with Detective William Danner after he wounded Detective Leo Phillips. Danner was seriously wounded. Boettcher later was convicted for the Cline killing but died of his injuries while awaiting electrocution.

STATE GOT 'HARD-BOILED' WITH FIDELITY CONCERN, BOWEN SAYS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Robert L. Bowen, Ohio superintendent of insurance, asserted today his department invoked "hard-boiled" supervisory mehods more than three years ago to protect this state's investors in the Fidelity Investment Associations's annuity contracts.

The investment firm, which has its headquarters at Wheeling, W. Va., was charged by the federal securities and exchange commission last week with fraudulent practices in a federal court action seeking to enjoin its operations.

Bowen asserted emphatically that he believed the company's reserve for "Series D" annuity contracts, sold almost exclusively in Ohio, was entirely solvent.

Records in Bowen's office showed that on June 6, 1935, he told the company flatly that it was "insolvent" and could not continue to do business in Ohio—a move, he said today, to force Fidelity to put its financial house in order.

Officials of the company earlier had sought permission to increase its $100,000 deposit with the state treasurer for protection of Ohio investors. Bowen refused, contending he was without legal authority to accept additional security.

The examination, Bowen said, had not been complete or comprehensive as to the value of all assets held by the company but indicated it was in financial difficulties as were many other similar firms at that time due to the depressed value of securities.

To obtain further information on Fidelity's financial status, Bowen said he then told the investment firm he would allow "grace" for a recheck of its assets by a representative of the Ohio insurance department at the company's expense.

The company contended it was entirely solvent and agreed to the recheck which was subsequently made by Raymond T. Cragin, Cleveland attorney.

Cragin's report, Bowen said, "indicated the company could be saved from bankruptcy with proper handling." He then permitted the firm to continue sale of annuity contracts in Ohio.

NORRIS, MURRAY DEMAND CAUSE FOR INQUIRY

Senators Call for Evidence of Wrong-Doing; They Will Oppose Investigation.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Administration senators today struck back at demands for a senatorial investigation of the WPA with demands that WPA'S critics produce evidence of wrong-doing before launching a probe.

Senators Norris (R) of Nebraska, and Murray, New Deal Democrat from Montana, charged that anti-New Dealers are attempting to smear WPA.

However, in Republican and old-line Democratic circles plans went forward for a battle royal over the relief administration when the new congress gets under way January 3.

A coalition was being formed to turn over relief administration to bi-partisan state boards, to be guided by standards prescribed by congress.

Favors Local Administration.

Senator-elect Chan Gurney (R) of South Dakota, said "relief should be administered locally by county commissioners or local boards, with federal allotments.

"The people pay the taxes to the federal government," he said. "The money comes from them in the final analysis."

Significance was added to the row over relief administration by reports President Roosevelt will appoint WPA Administrator Harry L. Hapkins as secretary of commerce to succeed Daniel C. Roper, whose resignation becomes effective Saturday.

The Sheppard-Senate committee which policed the November senatorial elections will meet tomorrow to consider its report to the senate. Committee investigators have reported alleged coercion and intimidation of relief workers to vote for adminuistration-supported candidates.

"Their is a movement afoot to kill the WPA," Norris said. "I'll not vote for a senate investigation of WPA, unless they can show that there has been wrongdoing. There was a lot of talk about the Tennessee Valley authority being another Teapot Dome scandal, but the investigation being made by congress has proven those charges to be false.

"They can get all kinds of people to make charges. But I am not going to support any resolution that has for its purpose mudslinging at the WPA."

Murray defended the WPA, saying its record for efficiency and honesty has been an "unusually good one."

FAIR ENOUGH!

WPA Almanac of Slang In New York Just 'Bunkum', To Use Slang Expression

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—A release from the writers' project of the WPA tells us that the 1939 almanac for New Yorkers, just published by this agency, contains the information that a gun is called a roscoe in the slang of the New York underworld, that a girl is called a twist, that a crook who introduces an unfortunate victim to a gang is called a steerer and that a knife is called a chiv.

Unfortunately, the release was not accompanied by a copy of the almanac itself, so I am unable to say whether this helpful publication tells the meaning of the term 23-skiddoo, but from the samples given in the mimeographed teaser, I would guess that it does. It is thoroughly up to date as of the year 1910 and may be helpful to literary archaeologists as a glossary of the obsolete.

It has been so long since a gun was called a roscoe that those who have an ear for the spoken tongue of this country associate the term with button shoes, pegtop pants, the pork pie hat and the reign of the big three in football.

True, the gun once was called a roscoe, but that was long before it was called a rod, a term which gave way to the more poetic form equalizer, which, in turn, was challenged by the word manhood. This last was slightly awkward but full of meaning to some. It conveyed the idea that a man was not a man without his gun, but with it he was somebody. It didn't have much of a run, but the word heater made good for a while, and in Chicago the term blast furnace or just furnace was used to identify the sawed-off shotgun, obviously because this weapon emitted a blurt of flame and powder ash. I just assume that, however, because I never saw a furnace fired.

A gun also was known as the difference and may still be so called, denoting the margin of power and courage between the man who had one and the man unarmed. And, of course, everyone has heard a gun called a gat, after the Gatling gun, but this one was so heavily overdone by fictioneers writing of the underworld and in comic strips of the Dauntless Dave type that it came to have a false and pretentious sound, like scram.

The word twist, for girl, never has been current in this country. Our underworld slang is not confined to the underworld, anyway, but seeps into the language of the people who affect slang which they think picturesque and presently find themselves using it without deliberation. Girls have been called wrens, chickens, dolls, broads and a number of other things in the American tongue, but the word twist is an import, said to have come from Australia by the way of San Francisco, and is an abbreviation of "twist and twirl."

This Australian lingo still comes to life in print now and again, but never has been spoken to any extent except self-consciously by individuals who were trying to be excessively picturesque. It requires a diligent memory course and lacks the one indispensable requirement of vital slang. It is not instantly plain, but must be puzzled out.

Mr. Hype Igoe, the boxing writer, is an authority on the Australian lingo and has printed a rather extensive vocabulary at times, and the late Tad Dorgan used bits of it occasionally in his cartooning. Hype and Tad both came from San Francisco

The word steerer seems to be an old western and if it is being used in New York now it is playing a revival. I think there was a western melodrama a long time ago called "the bunco steerer." Nowadays—and even these terms are old—a steerer would be called a shill or capper. I suppose there are those who call a knife a chiv. There is no law against it, but neither does it need translation in a book at public expense, being of about the same value in language as the word flivver, which I believe was given to the language by T. E. Powers, the Hearst editorial cartoonist, a long time ago.

The almanac also tells us that a prison guard is called a screw and that the word jiggers is a cry of alarm denoting the approach of the cops. In fact, it doesn't go that far about the word jiggers, explaining that it means look out, but the old phrase, "Jiggers, the cops," certainly needs no translation to anyone who was committing juvenile mischief in the alleys of the United States as far back as 40 years ago.

I don't want to seem saucy, but I think such a book, a public expense, is just sheer bunkum, to use a slang expression.

However—easy go.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Every time a former star walks on a set as an extra, a story goes out about So-and-so's "comeback."

So-and-so, the yarns relate usually with an underscoring of Hearts and Flowers, is determined to start in at the bottom and regain So-and-so's former glory.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, So-and-so hasn't a chance. He's either being given a few days' work by a director who remembers when, or he's taking the work cure. Actors, no matter how well-heeled they may be, are just like the rest of us in getting bored with idleness.

All the same, there have been some real comebacks this year, although not one rose from the extra ranks.

John Barrymore never really left the screen, but it was all set to leave him until he crashed through in "True Confession," as an eccentric comedian Since then J. Barrymore has had more big-time jobs then he could fill, and he's clicking in everything he does.

Lew Ayres, a juvenile star after "All Quiet on the Western Front," kept on losing ground, tried directing for a while, and this year—with "Holiday"—found himself as a character lead He's been going great guns.

You've been seeing George Bancroft again lately, notably in "Angels With Dirty Faces." George left pictures as a star—he was a topnotcher of a decade ago—and he stayed clear of them, or vice versa, until a couple of years ago. He's back not as a star, but as an important character player.

Fay Bainter's a combacker, too, if you count that one talkie of a few years back that she'd rather forget. "White Banners" brought her back from the stage.

And Nancy Carroll, the romantic star of a few years ago, played a classy heavy in "There Goes My Heart," and she played a sweet gal—also classy—in "That Certain Age," all of which may add up to a serious comeback.

There's Harry Langdon, too, once the child-faced comic of the silents. Harry previewed his comeback in "There Goes My Heart," not even billed in the cast.

Another one-time favorite, Helen Twelvetrees, can be found—in the feminine lead—on the "Me and My Gal" set. Buck Jones is the star—but this isn't a western.

One of the biggest, in her day, was Evelyn Brent. Famous and rich, too. There's a game girl, neither famous nor rich now, but in there fighting. She came as close as anybody to starting again from scratch, in the most minor roles. By now she has worked her way up to substantial leading parts, the latest in "Law West of Tombstone."

And here's a comeback I'm looking forward to—Dick Barthelmess's. Barthelmess has been taking things easy, but he isn't the type who can retire permanently. He is signed for Howard Hawks' aerial film, "Plane No. 4."
